CYANIDE IN WOMAN'S BODY

Medical Examiner Testifies in Wohlgemuth Murder Trial; Pelletier Accuses Husband

That the stomach of Mrs. Mary Wohlgemuth, for whose murder her husband, Frank B. Wohlgemuth, is now on trial before Judge Fessenden and a jury in the Superior Court, contained evidences of cyanide of sodium was testified today by Medical Examiner Timothy J. Leary.

Dr. Leary performed an autopsy March 30 last, the day of the alleged murder. He testified he at first thought the stomach showed traces of cyanide of potassium, but later, upon chemical analysis, discovered it was cyanide of sodium.

Upon opening the stomach, he said, there was an odor of prussic acid. The blood was fluid, an indication of cyanide. He found a tubercular lesion of the lungs, which, however, had healed. The lining of the stomach was bright red. Mrs. Wohlgemuth was undernourished.

TESTIMONY ON BRAIN.

Examination of her brain, said the witness, showed it weighed but 1,100 grams. The standard weight is 1,300 grams. The lack of weight indicated a low mentality, he stated. Cross-examined by Attorney Daniel J. Foley for the defense, Dr. Leary said a low mentality did not indicate a tendency to suicide.

His suspicion in the case, said the medical examiner, was first aroused after he had left the Wohlgemuth apartment at No. 153 Shawmut avenue. He had found Wohlgemuth, the latter's sister, Mrs. Mary Case, and Wohlgemuth's daughter in the apart-

'Public Ownership Is Only Way to Cut 'L' Fares'--Richards

Low fares on the Boston Elevated Railway can be brought about only through public ownership, James L. Richards, one of the directors of the road, told the Special Street Railway Commission today.

Speaking from the financial viewpoint of the trolley situation, he said that disaster would come to the road when returned to private ownership, if, during public control, a fare below cost were charged and the deficit taken out of taxes. The decided increase in fare that then would be necessary to operate the lines on a paying basis would plunge the owners into tremendous difficulties," he said. "If a low fare is to be put into effect now, the road should be taken over entirely by the public and operated by it for all time."

Mr. Richards favored the purchase of the Cambridge subway by the State, the abolition of taxes at least until the road is financially on its

'MILLION DOLLAR KID' GETS RIDE IN PATROL

Byron Chandler Fails to Fix Auto Theft on Two Held as Suspects

Byron Chandler, who some years ago as "the Million Dollar Kid" used to burn up Boston streets in his luxurious high-powered automobiles, today rode from Station 14 in the Back Bay to the Charles street jail in a common patrol wagon.

Chandler's ride today was to identify two men held for trial in the Superior Court on the charge of stealing an automobile.

According to Chandler, he was going along Times square, in New York, on October 11, in his automobile, at which time he picked up two men, a soldier and a sailor. He drove along a short distance, leaving the car for a few moments to make a call. When he returned he found both car and men missing.

That night Loyd Miller and Milton Leon were arrested in Boston on a charge of attempting to steal an automobile from the rear of the Copley-Plaza. They were taken to Station 14, where two officers, secreted in an adjoining cell, heard the men talking about a certain automobile theft in New York. Miller is at present held in $2,500 on two counts and Leon is held in $2,000.

Leon, who is out on bail, visited the jail today to pay a visit to Miller and was taken into custody as a suspect in the New York theft. Chandler, however, failed to make sufficient identification, even after one of the men had been attired in uniform and placed among the guardsmen present.

Chandler still insists that his machine was stolen and abandoned somewhere in Connecticut.

WAKEFIELD COMPANY OF GUARD BEGINS PATROL

Company H of the Twelfth State Guard Regiment today relieved Company A of the Fourteenth, which has been on duty at Station No. 11 in Dorchester. The new guardsmen are mostly residents of Wakefield and are under command of Captain Downey. The men of Company A, who have been under the direction of Captain Lane, rolled their tents in Ronan Park, and with their field kitchen equipment went to the Commonwealth Armory to be discharged.

THREE KILLED IN NEW YORK 'L' CRASH

Firemen Rescue Many Passengers From Trains in Rear-End Collision

New York, Oct. 21.—Three persons were killed today and fourteen others were seriously injured in a rear-end collision between two north-bound Third avenue elevated trains at Tremont avenue station.

The dead:

James P. Tallen, twenty-five; Maurice Eltinge, forty, and Maurice Sigerman, thirty-six.

Slippery rails and brakes that did not work right caused the collision, according to the motorman of one of the wrecked trains.

The motorman and one of the conductors on the rear train were killed. The passengers on both trains were hurled from their seats and many of them seriously injured.

Both of the trains were crowded with workers going to the upper Bronx. Firemen ran ladders up to the tracks and assisted in taking passengers from the cars.

Irving Boyd, one of the motormen, was placed under arrest and charged with negligence. He was taken to a hospital in an unconscious condition after rescuers had chopped him from his compartment.

WARNING ON DUPICATE BONUS APPLICATIONS

Service men who have failed to receive the $100 bonus today were warned against sending duplicate applications. More than 5,000 have been received. In the language of the office boy, this has "clogged up the works." Service men who fiercely "bawl out" applications and who feel that the bonus should have been received by this time are instructed to send a letter, stating the facts, to "Division H, Military Department, State Treasurer's Office."

INJURIES FATAL TO STUDENTS AT DANVERS

MAY OUST MALDEN MAYOR

Blodgett, Ill, Attempt Will Be Made Tonight to Declare Office Vacant

An order declaring the office of Mayor of Malden vacant will be introduced at a meeting of the Malden City Council tonight. A special election to choose a new Mayor will also be asked.

An order declaring the office of Mayor of Malden vacant will be introduced at a meeting of the Malden City Council tonight, a special election to choose a new mayor will also be asked.

This action is taken under a 1909 statute which provides that when a Mayor is absent from duty sixty days because of illness or other conditions, the City Council may declare the post vacant and call a special election to choose his successor.

Mayor Charles M. Blodgett was last at his desk in the Malden City Hall on August 26, it is claimed. He has been living at his summer home at Canaan, N. H. He has written to friends in Malden that he is suffering from high blood pressure. He withdrew from the race for State Senator, but is said to have stated that he would be a candidate for re-election as Mayor.

During his absence John V. Kimball, chairman of the Council, has been acting mayor.

Mayor Blodgett in a telephone conversation with the American today from his home in Canaan, expressed confidence that the Malden council would not pass the order declaring his office vacant.

"They will go slightly slow on a matter of that kind," he predicted. "Whoever starts an action of that kind is only seeking notoriety."

The Mayor was told that popular comment about Malden was that it was not so much a "high blood pressure" bothering him as an advanced case of political cold feet.

"It isn't true" declared the executive over the telephone.

"My illness is the only thing that keeps me from Malden. I am under the care of a physician and on a strict diet. I expect to return and take up my duties as soon as the doctor gives me permission which I think will be quite soon."

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER BURNED AT EAST BOSTON

Mrs. John A. Nelson, sixty years old, and her daughter, Mrs. Agnes Lomasney, of No. 346 Bremen street, East Boston, were burned while trying to extinguish a fire caused by a defective oil stove. Damage estimated by Chief Francis Sweeney of the East Boston district amounted to $500. After lighting the oil stove the women went into the basement. Mrs. Nelson upon going upstairs later found the kitchen ablaze. In attempting to extinguish the fire with a blanket she was burned about the face, hands and arms. Mrs. Lomasney rushed to help her mother to escape through a rear window. Her face was burned. Mrs. Nelson's son, Joseph Nelson, is attached to Fire Boat No. 47.

DOCK MEN VOTE TO RETURN

Striking New York Longshoremen to Go Back to Work Tomorrow

New York, Oct. 21.—The longshoremen's strike, which has paralyzed harbor traffic and held up trans-ocean shipping here for days, showed indications of breaking this afternoon.

Delegates of all the unions in Manhattan held a big mass meeting in Eleventh avenue and voted unanimously to return to work starting tomorrow morning. The vote followed an appeal from T. V. O'Connor, president of the International Longshoremen's Union, who has steadily appealed to the men to abandon the strike and return to work.

Strikers Plan Tieup of Steel Corporation's Railroad Facilities

Washington, Oct. 21.—Plans for tying up all the railroad transportation facilities of the United States Steel Corporation were discussed today at a conference between John H. Fitzpatrick, chairman of the national committee in charge of the steel strike, and the presidents of the Big Four railroad brotherhoods. Fitzpatrick made this announcement upon his arrival here today.

The brotherhoods will be asked to call out all members handling cars for the shipment of steel from the mills under strike ban.

Fitzpatrick said the strikers "were marshalling their forces for victory."

"We've got 'em," he said with a grin. "And our organized labor is going to help us to hold 'em. Our position shows increased strength this week. The Ladies' Garment Workers gave us $250,000 for the commissaries we are starting to feed the strikers and their families. Other unions are contributing generously."

Fitzpatrick also said he had come to Washington to request the government to send U. S. troops to Pennsylvania to supplant the State police.

Conference of Coal Miners and Operators Resumed at Washington

Washington, Oct. 21.—The conference of coal operators and coal miners, called by Secretary Wilson in an attempt to prevent the threatened coal strike, was resumed today.

The morning session was taken up by the miners, who made a statement of their demands and presented to the conference statistics justifying their demands.

This afternoon the coal operators stated their side of the case.

"We have no reason to change our position yet," said John L. Lewis, acting president of the United Mine Workers of America, as he left the conference.

"We listened to Secretary Wilson and we stated our position and there is no change," he added.

FATHER OF FAMILY PAYS FINE FOR DRUNKENNESS

Two months' imprisonment hangs over Michael A. Lally of Withington street, Dorchester, found guilty today of going home drunk at 1 a. m. and driving his wife and two children into the street in their night clothing. Lally has been employed on the street cleaning department. After fining the man $10 for drunkenness, Judge Churchill of the Dorchester Court sentenced him to two months' imprisonment on the second charge and suspended the sentence until April 1, 1920.

Land Seized by State Yielded to Schwab for $1 a Year

That nearly 700,000 square feet of State land in Quincy, for which the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation now pays an annual rental of $90,000, has been "handed over" to that corporation for a nominal rental of $1 a year by the State Waterways Commission and the Governor's Council became known today.

It is virtually a contribution to a drydock which the corporation plans to build at the Fore River Victory plant where Hayward's Creek empties into Fore River.

The agreement between the corporation and the Waterways Commission was ratified by the Governor's Council last Wednesday, without publicity.

The land is part of a great parcel taken from private owners by the Waterways Commission in 1916, which was leased to the Fore River corporation under terms which, as then stated, would totally reimburse the State in twenty years.

Under the new plans just ratified the corporation agrees to pay the cost of dredging and filling and to make a contribution of $50,000 toward other necessary work, the entire cost of which is not estimated in the agreement.

Hayward's Creek separates Quincy from Fore River. In the great rush of war work, when plans were formu-

SUGAR DIVERTED FROM HUB; TOO MUCH HERE

Boston, as a port, has more sugar than she can handle, yet every housewife within 100 miles of the city is clamoring for an allowance of the commodity. That announcement was made today when it was stated that the steamer Fordonia has been diverted from Boston to New York.

The Fordonia carries in her holds 7,000,000 pounds of raw sugar from Jucaro, Cuba, which had been billed to this port. Today she was diverted into Key West, and when she resumes her outward journey it will be to New York. Two ships are due today with 12,000,000 pounds aboard.

Because of the numerous complaints regarding the distribution of sugar, the State Commission of the Necessaries of Life today announced that absolute control was in the hands of the local representatives of the United States Sugar Equalization Board. These representatives are Woodward K. Greene, president of the American Sugar Refining Company, and Dwight P. Thomas, president of the Revere Sugar Refining Company.

The commission stated that its only jurisdiction was in the enforcement of the Federal fair price regulations. All complaints of sugar distribution should be made to Messrs. Greene and Thomas, the commission says.

WILSON SHOWS NO SIGNS OF FATIGUE

Washington, Oct. 21.—President Wilson showed no signs of fatigue today, despite the fact that he did not sleep so well last night. Dr. Grayson announced at the White House today.

The official bulletin issued by Dr. Grayson, was as follows:

"The President's prostatic condition remains as before. Chemical examination of the blood shows the kidneys to be functioning normally. He did not sleep so well last night, but shows no signs of fatigue this morning."

Children Cause $400 Fire

Children playing with matches in the hallway of the three-story wooden dwelling at No. 32-34 Orange street, Chelsea, started a fire which threatened to destroy the building today. A still alarm was sounded. Damage was estimated at $400. The house is occupied by Herbert F. McHale.

FALSE REPORT OF SURRENDER OF KRONSTADT

With the British Fleet in the Baltic, Oct. 21.—The world was misled in its belief that the white flag had been raised over Kronstadt by its Bolshevik defenders. A Red Cross flag was raised over a hospital and persons on shipboard thought it was the white flag of surrender. General Yudenitch's army is now facing the Narva rate of Petrograd.

BOSTON MAN CHARGED WITH LARCENY OF AUTO

Milford, N. H., Oct. 21.—H. W. Wilson of Hancock street, Boston, was arrested today by Chief of Police James Monteith, as the chief claims he was in the act of driving an automobile from a private garage. Wilson leaped from the machine when he saw the chief, but after a chase was arrested and charged with the larceny of an automobile.

MESSAGE SENT TO LANE

President Writes Letter to Conference Despite Grayson's Protest

By International News Service.

Washington, Oct. 21.—President Wilson has dictated a message to the industrial conference.

The letter was addressed to Secretary Lane, chairman of the conference, and gives the President's views upon the conference situation. President Wilson dictated the message from his bed and signed it with a lead pencil.

Dr. Grayson stated that the President's action in writing to Secretary Lane concerning the industrial conference was against his wishes. The president shows no ill effects of his efforts, however, Dr. Grayson said.

It was understood to be a personal letter to Secretary Lane, voicing an appeal that the conference remain in session until some definite action had been taken on the great questions pending.

The letter, it was understood, was to be laid before the conference at the discretion of Secretary Lane.

Secretary Tumulty conveyed the letter to Secretary Lane personally.

The public group came to the morning session of the conference with a new resolution which it had decided to try to force upon the employers. In this resolutions it is said are taken directly from the labor clause of the League of Nations covenant. These words are "verbatim" from the covenant.

They were the "quintessence of its own choosing."

The labor men say that if the employers could be put in the light of refusing to vote for a phrase which is taken directly from a paragraph in the League of Nations covenant they would appear to be voting against a clause of the world's law.

"The employers are balking on being required to meet representatives of labor," said a member of the public group today. "They cannot agree on how such representatives shall be chosen. The covenant of the League of Nations is now world law. In that covenant labor is given the right to be represented by men whom the workers themselves select. So we have put that portion of the covenant into our resolution and we are going to try to find out whether American employers will refuse to recognize the League of Nations covenant."

SULLIVAN THREATENS TO ARRAIGN LAWYERS

Judge Sullivan in the municipal court today warned all officers, attorneys and others having cases there to appear when the cases were called or be placed in the dock themselves. As a result three cases were dismissed. In the same court Michael Malacuk of Leverett street was fined $5 after pleading guilty to selling jamaica ginger. He was placed on probation after a demand by the judge.

The employers group was split on the issue of the open shop. The bankers and manufacturers in the group were the liberal elements in yesterday's caucus. The manufacturers, however, stood out.

The conference was called to order at 10, fifty minutes late. It took a recess at the request of the labor group. Leonor Loree, railroad president of the employers' group, presented a resolution which provided that the conference recommend a form of industrial insurance by which employes could take out policies in units of $100 against losses of wages by sickness, lockout, accident, old age, unemployment and death.

The labor group asked for the recess to consider the new resolution which had been prepared by the public group. The use of the five words taken from the League of Nations covenant caught their immediate interest.

During the recess while labor was in secret session it was suggested that perhaps the League of Nations rule might prevent the conference from going on the rocks.

GERMAN STOWAWAY GETS CHANCE TO PLEAD CASE

Christian Nissen, the twenty-two-year-old German stowaway who was brought here Sunday from Hamburg by the American steamship Yaquina, appeared before the special inquiry board at the immigration station for a hearing. Although the decision was for his deportation to Germany, the board granted him the opportunity to appeal to Washington for a reversal of this finding.

Champ Clark Admits He's Willing to Be President

By International News Service.

Washington, Oct. 21.—"I am willing," shouted Champ Clark in the House today when Representative Hulings, Republican, of Pennsylvania, mentioned him for the Presidency.

Cheers, applause and laughter shook the House.

Champ Clark had made a speech opposing the age limit of seventy years for the comptroller of the currency of the United States, as proposed in the budget bill.

"We are now considering a youth of sixty-nine for the Presidency," declared Hulings as Clark sat down. Up jumped Clark and shouted his willingness.

The award was given in recognition of her service while with the American Army in France. She was accompanied to New York by her father, John J. Young, and several local Salvation Army workers.

HARVARD FUND DRIVE SLOWS UP HERE

But Friends of Harvard, a New Organization, Enters Endowment Campaign

Had canvassers for the Harvard Endowment Fund contributed the speed yesterday that was displayed on previous days in the campaign Boston total up to today would have been over the $2,000,000 mark instead of several thousand less. Boston canvassers secured a trifle over $25,000, a smallest for any day since the campaign started three weeks ago.

Totals for the campaign up to noon today were:

Boston	$2,024,566
New York	2,251,376
Outside	1,160,090
Total	$5,176,324

The final committee work greatly pleased yesterday over the entrance into the campaign of an auxiliary organization known as the Friends of Harvard, headed by a committee of Boston business men.

STATEMENT BY "FRIENDS."

The statement issued by the committee having charge of the Friends of Harvard movement follows:

"Many people who are not graduates of Harvard University have shown an interest in the Harvard Endowment Fund and have expressed a desire to make contributions. They realize that the university is an asset to the country and especially to Greater Boston; that this entire community is distinctly benefited by any endowment that tends to improve Harvard University.

"It is believed that a large number of persons who are not graduates of the college wish to see this endowment fund succeed, and would be glad to contribute to it should the opportunity be given them. Accordingly the undersigned, who are not graduates of the college, have constituted themselves a committee, to confer with you as to the best means to communicate with persons who are also not graduates and to ask that such a desire be contributed to the fund to send their contributions to George Mumford, 38 Congress street, Boston.

"Subscriptions may be paid in full at the time they are made or they may be paid in annual installments over a period of five years, with the first installment paid with the subscriptions. Checks should be drawn to Charles F. Adams, treasurer.

"Signed: Samuel Appleton, Ephraim J. Bliss, Louis K. Liggett, F. C. Durgin, Charles Wallace Eliot, John H. Macomber, Harold Murdock, James J. Phelan, Frank B. Semis, Arthur W. Wellington.

LATEST SUBSCRIPTIONS.

Spreckels Blames U. S. Control for High Sugar Price

By International News Service.

Washington, Oct. 21.—Government control was today blamed for the high price of sugar by C. A. Spreckels, president of the Federal Sugar Refining Company, Yonkers, N. Y., testifying before the Senate committee investigating the sugar shortage.

Mr. Spreckels told the committee that the food administration last year bought sugar and furnished it to manufacturers at a profit of $8 a ton. This was passed on to the consumer, costing him $320,000,000 more than before, the witness stated.

ment. They told him Mrs. Wohlgemuth had been in the habit of visiting her sister-in-law and had then returned to the Wohlgemuth home.

Dr. Leary said he became suspicious because of the repeated declarations that all presents had taken the suits, and upon learning that Wohlgemuth was a metal worker and had access to cyanide.

PELLETIER OPENS.

District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier opened the case for the government, telling the jury that it was not necessary to show a motive, but that the government would show that the prisoner was infatuated with another woman, and that Mrs. Wohlgemuth was insured for $5,000.

John H. Mahoney, an architect, was the first witness. He explained plans of the Wohlgemuth apartment.

Dr. M. S. Ayer of No. 318 Shawmut avenue testified that March 30, about noon, the defendant personally called on him and asked him to go to the defendant's home. The physician did not reach the Wohlgemuth home until 1 o'clock, and then learned that Mrs. Wohlgemuth had been dead about fifteen minutes. He certified to the fact. The defendant made no objection to the witness summoning the medical examiner.

CITES CONTRADICTIONS.

Contradictory statements made by Wohlgemuth were testified to by Inspector James R. Dennissey, homicide expert of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation.

Inspector Dennissey told of questioning the defendant at the Dedham street police station, April 3, and read from a stenographic report of the interview.

Wohlgemuth's story to Dennissey was that on her return from church, Sunday, March 30, his wife had said: "God, I feel badly; I guess I'll take some salts."

Wolgemuth descended the fire escape to the flat of his sister, Mrs. Mary Cane, and through the latter's window received from her a bottle of salts. Ascending the fire escape to the own apartment he took two tea spoonfuls of the salts in a cup, and gave his wife one teaspoonful in a glass.

He had never had any quarrels with his wife in the eight years of their married life, he said, and had never been married before. The stenographic report showed that under cross-examination by Dennissey he contradicted himself, and admitted that he had been divorced before his marriage to Mary Wolgemuth, and that sometime in February he had quarrelled with her, over her going to Philadelphia with a friend of hers. She went, he said, and he packed up and turning their daughter over to the care of his mother, he "went away."

He first said that the only implement he used in his work as a forger at the navy yard was a large pair of tongs. He did no molding, he said, and did not know what cyanide was.

SALTS "LOOKED GREEN."

He noticed that the fluid of the salts looked green as his wife drank it. First he said he had some talk with his wife about taking a lemon and some strawberry candy after drinking the salts. Later he said neither had discussed the matter.

He was crossexam-ined by Inspector Dennissey about his work and the shop at the Navy Yard. He said he had never been in "the other shop" of which a man named Lane was in charge. The notes then proceeded:

Q.—You were never in that shop? A.—No.

Q.—Did you ever see any one go into that shop? A.—Yes, the men went there when they wanted anything.

Q.—Did you ever get any thing there? A.—No.

Q.—Did you ever see any one else get anything there? A.—Yes, something fine in a little brown box.

Wohlgemuth said that he had been previously employed as a teamster, and admitted that his wife had had words with him about a girl named Mary McManus, who lived on Trenton street, under the bridge.

The police stenographer verified the report as read by Dennissey.

Dr. William F. Boos testified that he had examined the organs after Dr. Leary. He found between thirty and fifty grains of cyanide of sodium in the stomach, he said.

Remember Late Leader

In memory of the ninety-third anniversary of the birthday of the late William H. Baldwin, for many years president of the B. T. M. C. Union, a large bouquet of chrysanthemums was placed by his son, George S. Baldwin, before Robert Gordon Hardie's painting of Mr. Baldwin in the rooms of the Union.

LEGION EXPECTS SPLIT WITH REGULARS

Sherburne Fears Resignations Because of Plank Calling for Overhauling of Military

Indications that officials of the American Legion expect a split between their members and the regular army officers over a plank in the legion platform calling for a thorough military housecleaning, a small regular army and a prepared citizenship under civil control came to light today when Brigadier-General John H. Sherburne issued a statement regretting the possibility of resignation from the legion of any regular army officers.

At the convention of the Massachusetts Branch of the legion at Worcester resolutions were passed calling for a housecleaning in military circles and pledging the legion to a small regular force, preparation of the citizens and civil control of the military forces. General Sherburne's statement makes it plain that the legion expects regular army officers to object to this platform.

The statement follows:

"It is to be regretted if regular officers are to resign from the legion because of the resolve of the Massachusetts Branch demanding a thorough housecleaning of our professional military establishment. As a matter of history many of the officers regulars are heartily in accord with the spirit of the resolution, for the present system bears a handicap upon the efficient regular than upon anyone else.

SEEK EFFICIENCY

"The issue as developed in the resolution of the Massachusetts Branch of the legion is not at all one between the Regular Army and the National Guard, it is between efficiency and inefficiency and an attempt to create an adequate military system based upon American institutions—for the good of all. Prevail.

"The military question of the nation is much better understood now than it was before the war. For the 4,000,000 men who served in the National Army and in the National Guard to express themselves rather than a few hundred officers who are themselves primarily interested parties.

PREFER CIVIL AUTHORITY.

"The German system which has been responsible for the horrors of the past four years is now fresh in the recollection of the people for them to run the risk of being responsible for a similar occurrence in the future.

"The resolve passed by the legion does not pretend to decide the question of compulsory military training, but it does express the sentiment that no system should be initiated until the present inefficiencies are eliminated and no system should be initiated which does not keep the army of the United States subject to civil authority."

DRIVE ON TAX FRAUDS BY CASEY

Acting Internal Revenue Collector Andrew J. Casey announced today that his department was to make a special investigation into the erroneous methods in making inventories for the taxable years 1917 and 1918, which have the effect of reducing the tax due the government from merchants and manufacturers. He said:

"When discovery of these erroneous methods is made by a government officer, heavy penalties will apply. In cases of voluntary disclosures before investigation of books by proper return and payment, the policy of the bureau will be to forego penalties except where there is intentional evasion of the tax.

"In some cases inventories have been found to have been taken on the basis of average costs, though it was possible to identify the articles remaining on hand at the inventory period, and so determine their exact cost. In others, because of conservative accounting methods, flat percentages have been deducted after determining inventory values. Others use a fixed average based upon costs of prior years, or fail to include all merchandise to which they have title in their inventory.

"All of these methods which have the effect of reducing the tax liability are contrary to the regulations of the bureau and are illustrative of the numerous irregularities which have been found.

"It is advisable that taxpayers who have followed such methods file correct returns without notice and without investigation. Some have voluntarily notified the bureau of the discovery of incorrect methods and are filing corrected returns. It is only fair to these taxpayers that their competitors who have made similar errors should be located."

COOLIDGE TO ADDRESS SUNDAY SCHOOL LEADERS

The thirtieth annual convention of the Massachusetts Sunday School Association opened in the First Baptist Church, Malden, today, with 700 delegates attending. The convention will last three days, with three sessions daily and some of them in the Centre Methodist Church. Tomorrow night Governors Coolidge of Massachusetts and Milliken of Maine are scheduled to speak. National Sunday school leaders present include John L. Alexander of Chicago, Miss Marion Laurance of Chicago and Miss Nan F. Weeks of Philadelphia. Miss Margaret Slattery of Malden, secretary of the Baptist State Educational Board, will review the work of that organization.

'Dollar a Dozen' Eggs in Boston, and Some Are Higher

Eggs passed the dollar mark today and several firms in the Faneuil Hall market were quoting prices from five to eight cents in excess of that for a dozen. Dealers predict that before the season advances much further eggs will be selling at ten cents apiece.

Killing off of laying hens because of the high prices of grain and chicken feed is generally blamed for the advanced cost of eggs. There is little increase of prices during the Winter on this account, coupled with the fact that hens actually lay less in the cold months. This year, it is claimed, the scarcity will be much more severe. Farmers maintain that there is little or no profit in eggs, even with the present high prices.

In New York, where eggs reached the dollar a dozen price today, the appearance a strike was held responsible but there is no such condition in Boston whereon to lay the blame, and local prices were frequently in excess of New York.

One chain concern with branches throughout the shopping district and suburbs was selling eggs at 75 cents a dozen, which was 17 cents less than the next lowest competitor. Two other prominent grocery firms with stores in various parts of the city fixed their price at 93 and 96 cents. One Faneuil Hall shop quoted eggs at 85 cents, but all the others in the public market visited today were from five to thirteen cents above.

GENERAL READE, U.S.A., RETIRED, DEAD AT 75

Native of Lowell, Noted as Historian, Had Won Many Military Decorations

Brigadier-General Philip Reade, retired, known for years in the army as "Well Read Reade," died today at his apartments in the Hotel Wadsworth, Kenmore street, Back Bay.

General Reade, who was born in Lowell in 1844, was the son of Henry and Rowena (Hildreth) Reade, and was a pupil in the Lowell public schools. He entered West Point in 1863 and graduated in 1867, being commissioned a first lieutenant in 1873. In 1889 he was raised to captain, became a major in 1897, a lieutenant-colonel in 1902 and a brigadier in 1908. General Reade retired in 1908, sixty-four years to a day from the date of his birth. He was awarded many decorations for distinguished and valorous service.

General Reade became noted as a historian, and the reason was given the cognomen of "Well Read Reade." Three years ago his wife died leaving the veteran alone. They were childless and his brother, Captain Harry Reade, had died seven years before.

The general was a member of the Lowell Legion, Sons of the Revolution, G. A. R., Spanish War Veterans and the Masons. He was also connected with many patriotic societies during the war.

Comes Now a Reply to the Critical Mr. Russell

October 20, 1919.

Editor American:

Now really, why should Mr. Russell, who failed in the Opera House, be permitted to refer to our bookings this year as "cheap melodramas and burlesque" when a reference to the advertising columns of the American proves the list of attractions to be Winter Garden productions and Sothern and Marlowe? Mr. Russell could have his interview without being permitted space for misstatement of facts.

I hope you will find space to correct this little misinterpretation.

Sincerely yours,

A. TOKEN WORM.

Manager, Boston Opera House.

STRIKING TEAMSTERS CONFER WITH HINES

New York, Oct. 21.—Hopes of an early settlement in the teamsters' strike, which has kept railway express business here tied up for ten days, were revived today with the receipt of an invitation to conference from Walker D. Hines, Director-General of the Railroads. Hines invited the strikers' representatives to Washington, and T. J. Lyons and Alfred Poss took the first train.

LIQUOR THIEVES TUNNEL UNDER WORCESTER BAR

Worcester, Oct. 21.—Tunneling their way under the cellar door of Joseph Hinchcliffe's saloon, Camp-bridge street, thieves stole 30 gallons of whiskey, valued at $600, which had been stored in the basement since July 1.

SEES LOW FARES ONLY BY PUBLIC OWNERSHIP

Director Richards of Elevated Favors Purchase by State of Subway fest again and the abandonment of the subway realm.

Questioned by Senator John J. Walsh relative to the low fares on the Philadelphia transit system as compared with those charged in Boston, Mr. Richards said he could give no explanation as he is not familiar with conditions in Philadelphia. The receipts of the Elevated, he said, are now about equal to its expenditures.

Frederic F. Snow, attorney for the Boston Elevated, expressed the opinion that were the road taken over by eminent domain proceedings the court would allow replacement values.

"In the case of one public service corporation taken over by a municipality, the court did not take into consideration the earning value of the company on the ground the fares were fixed by the public," he said. "I am inclined to think the same view would be taken were the Elevated seized by eminent domain."

CONTROL COULD BE BOUGHT.

In reply to a question from Senator Cavanagh of Everett, Mr. Snow said that the company in all likelihood would be required to devote the proceeds of the sale of the Cambridge subway to any particular use specified by the Legislature, should that body indicate the use to which the money should be put. Mr. Cavanagh had expressed the doubt that possibly unpaid bondholders could secure the money through court procedure. Next year bonds to the amount of $3,000,000 will mature.

Mr. Snow also expressed the opinion that the State could aid the road by buying its bonds until it would own virtually all of the company's issue. Senator Walsh was of the opinion that the public could secure partial control of the company through buying its common stock.

"The fundamental weakness of the Elevated," said Mr. Snow, "is the uncertainty relative to its future. Had the Legislature adopted the suggestion of Public Service Commissioner Joseph B. Eastman and taken over the control of the road until such a time as it again became a paying proposition, and not merely for a period of ten years, the public and the company would be much stronger than it is today. Under the present arrangement the investor is afraid to put his money into the property."

The Electric Iron 2,000,000 Rely On

More than 2,000,000 women use the "American Beauty." They gladly paid a little more for its quality, that serves and saves for years.

'LOVING GURU' VANISHES AND SOCIETY WOMEN QUIT 'MYSTIC' CLUB

EXPOSURE CAUSES FLIGHT

Professor Dana, Formerly of Harvard, Secretary of New Colony

New York, Oct. 21.—"Oom the Omnipotent" is missing.

Following the exclusive publication in the American that Dr. Pierre A. Bernard, superintendent and "general housekeeper" of the exclusive Braeburn Country Club at Nyack, was none other than the notorious Loving Guru of the Tantrika, the Yogi high priest dropped out of sight as mysteriously as he had dropped after his three exposures in New York City.

With the sudden departure of "Oom" from the beautiful country club that overlooks the Hudson, all the prominent society women and others who had been spending the week-end at the "rest cure" simultaneously dropped out of sight.

EXODUS A HASTY ONE.

As soon as it became known that the suave superintendent had been disclosed as the head of the mystical Tantrik order, whose wild orgies in the temples as conducted in New York led to his banishment, there was a hasty exodus from the club.

SHERIFF TO MAKE INQUIRY.

Mrs. Cyril Hatch, formerly Miss Barbara Rutherfurd, daughter of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and her sister, Mrs. Ogden Mills, departed hastily. At the cottage they occupied at the foot of Hook Mountain, not far from the club, it was said they had gone to New York city.

Mrs. Chalmers Wood, Jr., of Bernardsville, N. J., another prominent society member of the club, remained on the grounds, but denied herself to interviewers.

It was disclosed that E. T. Dana, secretary of the club, is Edmund Trowbridge Dana, a grandson of the poet, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, and formerly assistant professor of philosophy at Harvard, and the University of Minnesota.

Following the disclosure that "Oom" was hoeing forth in Nyack, Alexander Merritt, sheriff of Rockland County, announced he intended to investigate the activities of the Braeburn Country Club without delay.

The sheriff and District Attorney Lexow of Rockland County, were not aware that Dr. Bernard was the Yogi chief who was arrested for young girls following police raids on his temples.

BUT HE FINDS DEFENDERS.

In spite of the revelations concerning "Oom's" past, two members of the Braeburn Club came to his defence.

They were Dr. Guy C. Brewster, an ear, throat and nose specialist, who is the club physician, and Chalmers Wood, Jr., Wall Street broker and society man. They said they knew all about Dr. Bernard before he appeared in Nyack, and no matter what had been charged against him, their faith in him could not be shaken.

When Dr. Brewster was asked if he knew the serious charges that had been made against "Oom," he replied that he did, but added that he didn't believe everything he read and heard about any one.

Dana, the secretary, who, it will be recalled, married Miss Jessie Holliday by a simple ritual which they themselves created, was dismissed from his professorship at the University of Minnesota after he commented on the suicide of his wife as "an act of her own choice and not a horrid accident." He held that it was more dignified to die by one's own hand than to leave the manner and hour of death to circumstance.

For his "lack of regard for common usage and lack of discretion necessary for a teacher" in discussing the suicide of his wife, he was ousted from the university.

PROVIDENCE AUTOIST JAILED ON LIGHT CHARGE

Attleboro, Oct. 21.—Claiming to be the owner of a big automobile which he was operating, Hugh J. Ryan of No. 5 Carpenter street, Providence, R. I., was unable to pay a fine of $20 which Judge Haserfy imposed on him in the District Court here for violating the spotlight law, and was committed to Taunton jail. A charge of operating an automobile without a license was laid on file.

THE PROPER WAY TO TAKE ASPIRIN

First see that the tablets you take are marked with the "Bayer Cross."

The Bayer Company, who introduced Aspirin, tell in their careful directions in each package of genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" that to get best results one or two glasses of water should be drank after taking tablets.

"Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" to be genuine must be marked with the safety "Bayer Cross." Then you are getting the world-famous Aspirin, prescribed by physicians for over eighteen years.

Each unbroken "Bayer" package contains proper directions for Colds, Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Neuritis, and for Pain generally.

Handy tin boxes of twelve tablets cost but a few cents. Druggists also sell larger "Bayer" packages. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.—Advertisement.

HINT TWO ARRESTS IN DRACUT MURDER

Victor Fortuna, twelve-year-old son of the slain woman.

Hedwig Fortuna, the daughter, who is ten years old.

Mrs. Mary Fortuna, the victim of a mysterious crime, whose nude body was found in the woods near her Dracut home.

Lowell, Oct. 21.—There was a new suspect today in the mystery surrounding the slaying of Mrs. Mary Fortuna, the Dracut mill woman whose partially decomposed body was found Sunday beneath foliage and underbrush on Hanton Farm, under Ledge Ridge. His arrest was expected before night.

Chief Cullinan of the Dracut police department declared that evidence originally overlooked was becoming increasingly important, and that his views on the brutal crime of Sammoth road in Dracut had undergone a change.

TWO ARRESTS LIKELY.

He considered it possible that two arrests might be made soon.

Popular indignation here demanded speedy retribution for the murderer. Each new detail of the outrage in the woods has added fuel to the public wrath since the body was discovered.

The fact that the woman was slain two days before she was to have married again has kindled speculation. Who took her divorced husband was living has added to the puzzle interest in the unusual case, and the pitiable plight of the little son and daughter she left under such a shadow has made an appeal to the sympathy of the people almost unprecedented.

Medical Examiner T. F. Smith's informal report indicated that the fractured skull was only one of a number of brutalities visible when the body was subjected to an autopsy.

BEATEN TO DEATH.

Finding of an undershirt in the woods on the Hanton farm, fifty yards from the spot where the body lay since September 6, indicated to the authorities that she had been beaten to death elsewhere and dragged through boulders and beaten saplings to her improvised grave.

A theory which gained ground today was that Mrs. Fortuna was killed in a house and dragged into the woods on the Hanton farm. This theory gained adherents while it was supposed that the shoe and stocking found on the otherwise nude body were the only clothing in the little grave.

Following the finding of the undershirt, and what seemed to be evidence of a struggle a short distance further on, the earlier theory that she had been killed while on her way to work on the morning of September 6 gained in strength.

No word has been received yet from the former husband of the mill woman, John Fortuna. He is supposed to be in a Rhode Island town.

SPENT MARRIED LIFE 'DODGING' MISSILES

Roxbury Man, Wed Through Agency, Says Home Was More Strenuous Than Police Duty

Benjamin Finn of Holman street, Roxbury, a retired Metropolitan Park policeman, testified in Suffolk Superior Court today that a matrimonial agency which introduced him to Leah Kapinn Finn caused him to lead the life of an artful dodger, compared to which his most strenuous days on the police force were idle ones. Finn is suing Leah for a divorce on the grounds of cruel and abusive treatment.

Finn, his thirteen-year-old daughter, Maurice, and fifteen - year - old son, Maurice, were all witnesses as to alleged Leah's plate, soup and food-throwing activities during the six weeks she lived with Finn, following their marriage in December, 1917.

"CALLED HIM A DOG."

Finn testified that he married Leah through the medium of a matrimonial agency, she had been married before, he said, and had lived with her previous spous but three weeks when there was a divorce. He is a widower.

He said that Leah began the establishment of a happy home for himself and his children by using profane language, and by hurling dishes around. He said she threatened to kill him, called him a dog, and threw hot soup and hot water at him. He was kept constantly dodging to avoid being hit.

She frequently threatened to make his children orphans by killing him and going to the electric chair, he said, and she also threatened to break a broomhandle over his head.

Maurice, the son, testified that "Mrs. Finn," as he referred to his stepmother, called his father wicked names, and threw things. She even threw food at Finn and his children at the dinner table, the son said, and if his father hadn't dodged as expertly as he did, he would have been scalded.

HURLED CROCKERY.

Maurice said that on the Sunday which broke the camel's back in the relationship between his father and Mrs. Finn there was quite a domestic scene in progress when Mrs. Finn went on a rampage. His father was shaving, his sister was ironing, and he himself was washing his underwear, Mrs. Finn having declined to do so, when Mrs. Finn started running through the house. She cleaned out the family bookcase, he said, hurling one after another at his father's head. Literature being exhausted she denuded the crockery closet in seeking ammunition, he said.

Bessie, the daughter, testified to the same effect, adding that she was forced to do the housework. Mrs. Finn was around very little of the time, she said, and the work fell to her.

Eleven-year-old Minnie Stillar, a neighbor and chum of Bessie, testified that because of the bad words Mrs. Finn used, she, Minnie, had stayed away from the Finn domicile.

FORMER BOSTON LUMBER MAN A SUICIDE

Shot Himself Rather Than Face Charges of Having Embezzled $60,000

George E. Feast, formerly head of a Boston lumber company, committed suicide rather than face charges of embezzling $60,000 from the Mt. Carmel Iron Works of Mt. Carmel, Pa., with which he had been recently associated.

Feast left Boston four years ago after two failures of his concern for liabilities aggregating $180,000. The company's offices were at No. 125 Cambridge street, Allston.

Coming here with his family from Toronto, Canada, in 1900, Feast had a meteoric career in the lumber business, beginning with his employment as bookkeeper by the Jacques Brothers Lumber Company. In a few years he acquired a one-sixth interest in the business, which he retained when the company sold out to Griffith & Kelver. He was promoted to manager.

In 1907 the company's yards were destroyed by fire and the insurance was paid to Feast as manager. The business was rebuilt, Feast paying the bills from the insurance money shortly after which he became sole owner.

Following an operating period of six months, he went into bankruptcy for $60,000. After his discharge from the bankruptcy courts he became with the business under a new name and within a year failed for $90,000. He accepted a place as efficiency expert with the Mt. Carmel Iron Works at Mt. Carmel, Pa., and in a short time he was made general manager.

Investigators recently ordered an audit of the books, which revealed a shortage of $60,000. This Feast admitted, but a few days later he disappeared, according to the directors, who further auditing showed a deficit of $90,000 a warrant was issued for his arrest.

Feast was arrested Sunday night in the Manufacturers' Club of Philadelphia. He had been absent from Carmel for three weeks and was said to have spent much of the time in New York city, spending many days in Philadelphia. He shot himself through the head on the way back to Mt. Carmel, while in the custody of an officer.

NEW BEDFORD TYPISTS MAY STRIKE FOR RAISE

New Bedford, Oct. 21.—Claiming they were overlooked when increases were granted to other classes of city employes, the clerks and girl stenographers employed by the municipal building are contemplating forming a union. Men who have been holding responsible clerical jobs in city departments for after years are not so well paid now as the unskilled laborers. It is contended. The girls are paid for stenographers in city work.

LONG'S GRILLING DESCRIBED BY OFFICER

Counsel, in Cross-Examination, Fails to Break Down Testimony Against Prisoner

Montpelier, Vt., Oct. 21.—Witnesses for the government today traced George A. Long's alleged connection with the murder of Mrs. Lucinda C. Broadwell at Long's trial for homicide, and one by one, under the cross-examination of Attorney Carver, senior counsel for Long, the witnesses forged a striking chain of circumstantial evidence against the prisoner.

Detective James R. Wood of Boston was the first witness cross-examined by Attorney Carver.

Q.—You said something of a letter written to Mrs. Grace Grimes by Mrs. Broadwell. Did you ever show Mr. Long the letter? A.—No.

Q.—Did you see the letter? A.—No.

Q.—Was there ever any such letter? A.—There was according to the information given me by Mrs. Grimes.

Q.—While Long was at the Barre Hotel did others talk to him besides you? A.—Yes.

GRILLING OF LONG.

The witness was brought to admit by Attorney Carver that most of the time between Sunday, May 11, and Thursday, May 15, was occupied by the grilling of Long. The witness had told Long on Sunday, May 11, that he was going to recommend his arrest. A stenographer was then called in, and the questioning of Long began.

Attorney Carver then took up the alleged exclamation of Long when he leaned against Mrs. Broadwell's garments and Deputy Sheriff Morris cried, "Look out Long, you'll get blood all over your hands." Detective Wood declared on direct examination that Long had ejaculated, "There's not a bit of blood on them clothes."

Attorney Carver questioned the witness closely as to the knots Long tied in three handkerchiefs.

Q.—Did he make any objection to tying them? A.—No, sir.

Deputy Sheriff Henry Lawson was the next to take the stand. He said Long, while at the Barre Hotel, had acknowledged that Mrs. Broadwell was at the Parker house on the night of the murder.

SHOWS WOMAN'S CLOTHES.

The witness described how Long examined some pictures of Mrs. Broadwell's nude body lying in the Wheelock garden, and then stepped back to the foot of a bed on which the garments worn by the dead woman when she was murdered were lying.

"Look out, George, you'll get your hands all over blood," the witness said to Long, who answered, "There's not a bit of blood on those clothes."

This testimony corroborated that given by Detective Wood, who was also at the room in the Barre Hotel when this occurrence took place.

Attorney Richard A. Hoar of the defence conducted the cross-examination of Lawson. He fired his questions at the witness in a sharp, accusing voice.

Q.—How many times did you question Long before he was taken to the Washington county jail? A.—About a dozen times, I guess perhaps more.

Q.—Mr. Long is a jumper, isn't he? A nervous chap, likely to start and cry out if suddenly touched? A.—Yes.

Q.—When he touched the clothes hanging on the foot of the bed, he shouted at him, didn't you? A.—No.

Q.—But he didn't jump, did he? A.—No.

Q.—Who was with Long during the greater part of the night and day at the Barre Hotel? A.—He was with him at night.

Q.—Did you ever wake him up to question him, after he had retired for the night? A.—I did not.

assembled for a discussion of culinary problems.

"To digress a moment, young ladies, compare the lot of the housekeeper of to-day with that of the housewife of but a decade or two ago. In those days it was a case of bake, bake, bake, everlastingly. The four walls of the kitchen spelled 'prison' to many a woman who should have been enjoying the fresh air, or extending her sphere of usefulness beyond that of housekeeping. Can any of you tell me one thing in particular that has come to vary the round of household work, and give an extra hour to Miss Walker."

"I would say that ready-to-serve foods are among the greatest boons to the modern housewife. We all know what they are—from cake goods to cookies. But there is a line of products, in particular, to which I should like to refer you right there time."

Who Murdered Doctor Dean?

American Patriot Victim of German Spy Plot

Von Bernstorff Was There! What Was He Doing?

William K. Dean, M. D., scholar and gentleman farmer of East Jaffrey, N. H., discovered signal flashes from mountain tops to submarines at sea. These flashes informed the Kaiser's sea wolves of the movements of American shipping. Dean loyally sent word of the fact and—less than twenty-four hours later was discovered, foully murdered, in the bottom of his own well.

The authorities, after slight investigation, pigeonholed the matter.

What really happened will be told in detail exclusively in the

KING ALBERT TO TALK TO CONGRESS OCT. 28

Washington, Oct. 21.—King Albert of Belgium will make an address from the floor of the House, October 28, the day after his scheduled arrival here, if the plans of the House do not go astray.

Resolutions were passed to recess on Tuesday, the 28th, from 1:45 to 2:30 o'clock to receive the King and listen to his speech

LAWRENCE POLICE SEEK ALLEGED VODKA VENDER

Lawrence, Oct. 21.—The Lawrence police are redoubling their efforts to apprehend Frank Maneur, who is charged with the illegal sale of Russian whisky. The whiskey when examined was found to contain a small percentage of alcohol. It was stated in court by Marshal J. J. Sullivan that Maneur has written to friends in this city offering to pay the fines of men arrested for having twelve bottles of whiskey in their possession.

STATE LAND 'HANDED OVER' TO BETHLEHEM CORPORATION

lated for the development of the great shipbuilding plant and terminal, the Fore River corporation found itself cramped for room. The strategic land which was necessary to provide an opening from the proposed new plant into the river was in land acquired by private owners, with whom the corporation had vainly sought to make terms.

The State, through the Waterways Commission, stepped in and took ninety acres of land. The land needed by the corporation was leased to it at a rental cost then said to be adequate to pay back the State in twenty years. Some of the remaining land was leased to other private interests.

Without the leasing of this land it was said that the shipbuilding corporation could not carry forward its great plans for development, which was an emergency necessity of the war.

Part of this land, for which the corporation was paying a rental amounting to $90,000 a year, is now turned over to it for a nominal fee.

FEW HAVE SEEN LEASE.

The exact cost of the State's original venture is still doubtful. An owner allowed $14,000 for his land by the Waterways Commission went into the courts and received $70,000. The Legislature appropriated $500,000 for the original project, but a copy of the first lease was not filed with the Governor's Council. A councilor today said he believed that few have seen the lease outside of the Waterways Commission and the representatives of the corporation.

It is said that in addition to the great drydock which the company proposes to build, the State also may build a great pier and terminal. Whether there will be enough business for the new State drydock at South Boston and the dock which the company is to construct is a matter for the future to decide.

In its last annual report, the Waterways Commission said:

"Not only the original area requested by the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation for development work in connection with government needs has been used, but much more of the area taken by the Commonwealth has been devoted to uses absolutely necessary to the service which the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation is rendering to the government in the present war emergency.

LARGE AREA AVAILABLE.

"In the section taken by the Commonwealth, located across the creek in Braintree, there is available a large area not used at the present time, but capable of improvement, of very great importance to the industrial life of southeastern Massachusetts. The commission is considering plans for the use of a portion of this area as storage yards for coal, lumber and oil, operated either by the Commonwealth itself or by private parties under lease from the Commonwealth, and furnishing a service in those necessities for the people of the State sure to be of great importance."

The agreement relative to the drydock, negotiated by the Waterways Commission and adopted by the Council last week, reads as follows:

"That the Commission on Waterways and Public Lands is authorized to enter into an agreement with the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation as follows:

"1. That the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation will dredge the basin for a drydock and the channel and approaches thereto, in accordance with a plan and agreement to be approved by the Commission on Waterways and Public Lands, or shall contribute to the funds of the Commonwealth for an expenditure for such dredging in conjunction with work that may be undertaken by the Commonwealth, to an extent not exceeding 650,000 yards of material in the aggregate, a portion of such material to be deposited upon the land of the Commonwealth located back of a bulkhead to be built in accordance with the same plan; or otherwise disposed of as shall be deemed necessary by the said commission.

NOT EXCEEDING $50,000."

"2. The shipbuilding corporation will contribute an amount not exceeding $50,000 to be used in the construction of bulkhead and culverts in any other work that may be necessary to the improvements related to the construction of the drydock by the shipbuilding corporation, or in connection with the pier and wharf which may hereafter be constructed on State property by the Commonwealth.

"3. The shipbuilding corporation will further pay $2,500 for tide water displacement in connection with the further disposal of dredged material.

"In consideration of the above agreement by the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation the Commonwealth is to convey in fee to the Shipbuilding Corporation the land to be occupied by the dry dock and appurtenances which includes the land extending from the westerly boundary line of the Wight land to a line across the outer end of the 800-foot pier shown on the plans of the Shipbuilding Corporation, an area of approximately 61,500 square feet of which 221,700 square feet are upland and the balance beach and flats.

"The Commonwealth further agrees to release the Shipbuilding Corporation from payment of the rentals provided for under lease now in force, dated March 24, 1917, at the rate thereof and confirm said lease of land not conveyed under this agreement under a nominal rental of $1 per year."

WHOLE FAMILY HURT AS AUTO OVERTURNS

New Bedford, Oct. 21.—Six persons were injured when a touring car in which they were riding turned turtle on the Middleboro road, two miles from Acquin. The injured are: Nathan Lavinsky, his wife, Matilda; his two children, Frieda L., six, and Reasie L., eleven; Mrs. Rose Epstein, thirty-two, and Evelyn Epstein, five years. The most seriously injured is Mrs. Epstein, whose collar bone was broken. The car was headed north, when a touring car owned by Mayor Charles S. Ashley of New Bedford, headed in the same direction, came along. Lavinsky tried to turn out to let the big car pass, ran into the ditch and overturned on the car tracks.

CLAIMS WAR BOARD WASTED MILLIONS

Washington, Oct. 21.—A "flare up" is expected in the House as the result of the resolutions introduced by Representative Aswell, Democrat, Louisiana, calling for reports on the time spent and the expenditures made by eight wartime committees since last May.

Aswell declares the committees have "fiddled and frittered away" the time and have expended a total of $2,500,000, for which he wants an accounting.

ONTARIO "DRYS" WIN BY OVER 100,000 VOTES

Ottawa, Oct. 21.—"Dry" leaders claimed at an early hour today that the "drys" had won the prohibition referendum by a majority of 100,000 votes. In Parliament the United Farmers won forty-one seats, Conservatives twenty-eight, Liberals twenty-nine, Labor eleven, and Independents one. Premier Hearst was defeated for re-election.

FIND BODY OF MAN IN IN SAUGUS RIVER

The body of an unidentified man about 60 years old was found in the Saugus River near Revere today by James Shea, who notified the Revere police. The body was taken to the rooms of an undertaker to be viewed by the medical examiner. The body had been in the water but a short time.

Millions in Stocks Made on Russian Reports

London, Oct. 21. — Colossal gains have been realized on stock exchanges in various European capitals on the strength of reports regarding the progress of the anti-Bolshevist forces in their march on Petrograd, though in well-informed circles here these reports are received with scepticism.

The Russian agent, Rubinstein, is said to have cleared millions on the Stockholm stock market due to the report of the former capital's fall.

The Russian ruble has been "sky-rocketing" ever since the first report of that kind was circulated.

MAID ARRESTED IN BIG JEWEL ROBBERY

Suspected of Having Accomplice in Taking Mrs. Brandeis' $100,000 Gems

New York, Oct. 21.—In the arrest of a woman giving the name of Louis Armstrong, charged with the larceny of jewelry worth $100,000 from Mrs Leyla Brandeis, by whom she was employed as a maid, the police believe they have captured an expert, an investigation of whose record may lead to sensational discoveries. The authorities claim to be on the trail of her accomplices. She was arrested on a bench warrant and locked up in the Tombs. An indictment has been found against her.

Mrs. Brandeis kept her jewels in a steel case, protected by electricity, in the wall of her bedroom, and attached to the case was a large gong. The maid was the only person, besides Mrs. Brandeis, having keys to the apartment and the jewel case.

Mrs. Brandeis went to Freeport, L. I., with her mother, Mrs. Laura Studebaker, October 11, and when she returned two days later found the jewel case had been forced open. The electrical wires had been cut.

None of the jewels have been recovered. They include twenty-five pieces of rare beauty, among them a platinum bracelet set with sixteen sapphires, valued at $4,800; a platinum bar pin with twelve diamonds; a chain with 265 small diamonds, and several smaller pieces.

EXHIBIT PAINTING OF OLD PROVIDENCE DEPOT

Much interest attaches to the public exhibition, on the very site of the scene it depicts, of William P. Bodwell's large painting of the Old Providence Depot and Park square in 1896. This picture was one of a series of Boston scenes painted in 1896 by Bodwell, who was then connected with the art department of a local paper. Last April it formed part of the exhibition of Bodwell's work at the Boston Architectural Club. It is now on exhibition in one of the windows of the Paine Furniture Company, whose building was a pioneer in the business development of the vicinity shown in the painting.

"POOR PAY," LAWRENCE ELECTION OFFICERS QUIT

Lawrence, Oct. 21.—Time was when an election officers' job was considered a staunch yard plum at $6 per day. Due to high wages paid in and out of the Lawrence mills the job has now gone begging. Three election officers tendered their resignations because the pay does not warrant staying away from their regular jobs on election day.

"SPOT," a brindle and white pet, whose disappearance makes his mistress ill.

Loves there are that passeth human understanding!

Such must be the love that bound a New Hampshire woman to a pet dog which somebody has taken and which she now writes to the American to help her recover.

Mrs. Emma M. Proctor, R. F. D. 6, Manchester, N. H., owned a dog named Spot. Now Spot, to other people, was just a plain, good-natured mutt that ran around the neighbors' houses, played with the neighbors' children and was just a loving neighborhood dog.

"Only those lonely people who have been denied the blessing of young children about the house," writes Mrs. Proctor, "can know how attached one can become to a pet dog. Few dogs had as many friends and admirers as Spot, and he had not one enemy. He was so well known that we have kept thinking someone who knew him would see him or he would return himself, but it has been so long now since he went he must have been taken too far away for that.

"Oh, how I do wish he could have added his days here where he belongs and not among strangers, or with no home at all. I am not overstocked with money, but I am willing to pay any reasonable price to anyone who will add me in getting me word of my old Spot. Our family is heartbroken over his loss. If anyone sees a brindle and white pet, having large brown eyes and a stub tail, answering to the name of Spot, express him at once to my address and no questions will be asked."

ROGERS FIGHTS VOCATIONAL LOAN BILL

Cites Few Results So Accomplished in Opposition to Broadening Control

Washington, Oct. 21.—Congress is very much interested in four developments of recent date of the work of the Federal Board for Vocational Education.

Three relate to publicity for the board. One is a request of newspapers that they play politics with mayors by not getting to select interesting feature stories if they will say nice things about the board's work for disabled soldiers and sailors.

Another is an appeal to newspapers not to criticise the board for fear that some disabled men may not have heard about its record and may not seek its offices. Another is a request of newspapers to publish a story, the theme of which is why disabled men accepted by the board for training are good matrimonial prospects.

"The folly of such tactics is apparent," said a Congressman who is studying the board's record.

"The fourth and most important development is the bill to give the board control of the work of rehabilitating industrial cripples.

Congressman Rogers of Massachusetts, who has asked for an investigation of the board's work for disabled veterans, is leading the fight against this bill. He makes the following statement:

"There can be no question as to the absurdity of doubling or trebling the work of the Federal Board by turning over to it the civilian disabled when it has been unable to scratch the surface of the problem of the soldier disabled.

"It had on its hands, since we gave authority under the act of June 27, 1918, 250,000 disabled soldiers, sailors and marines; under this law there will be added 250,000 civilians who will be eligible for vocational education.

"The question then arises how the action of Congress in doubling the task of the board at this time will be construed by the country. Will it be construed as an indorsement, as a testimonial of their achievement in handling the soldier problem with which they have been at work for something over a year?

"Is there any escape from the conclusion that if we double their task the country will say that Congress regards its entirely satisfactory the work that they have already done in caring for the soldier?

"Of the 170,000 men who had appealed to the board for aid 25,000 had been recommended for training by the agencies of the board, 146,000 applicants had not been recommended or had not been reached in the machinery of the board's activities. Of the 170,000 applicants for aid, 7,312 men on August 23 had actually been put in training. In other words less than 4,000 men had been started on their way toward vocational usefulness through the medium of the training authorised by the act of Congress.

Further, I am advised on authority which I have not seen contradicted, that on September 4 thirty-three men having completed their training, had entered gainful occupation as a result of the board's assistance."

Installation of Officers

In Bethesda Hall, South Boston, Friday evening, an installation of officers will take place under the auspices of Mt. Washington Lodge of Workmen. A banquet will follow and a reception for the grand officers.

SHE DARKENED HER GRAY HAIR

Tells How She Did It With a Home-Made Remedy.

Mrs. E. H. Boots, a well-known resident of Buchanan County, Ia., who darkened her gray hair, made the following statement:

"Any lady or gentleman can darken their gray or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy with this simple remedy, which they can mix at home. To half a pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, one small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair every other day until the gray hair is darkened sufficiently. It does not color the scalp; is not greasy and does not rub off. It will make a gray-haired person look 10 to 20 years younger."

BIFF!

Stop jolting Liver and Bowels with violent drugs, but take "Cascarets."

"Dynamiting" bile out of your system with calomel and other sickening purgatives is all wrong. Salts, Oil and Cathartic Waters act by flooding the bowels with the digestive juices which are vital to the stomach. Cascarets are different. They act as a tonic to the bowel muscles, which is the only sensible way to relieve a bilious attack, a sour, acid stomach, or constipated bowels. There is no griping or inconvenience. You naturally return to regularity and cheerfulness. Cascarets cost very little, and they work while you sleep.—Advertisement.

The Shoe Problem

The buying of merchandise of all kinds today is a problem—the demand is so great that, with the reduced production, the supply cannot keep up to it; and the result is scarcity and high prices.

Under these conditions it is important to make every dollar count. Value is the principal thing—you do not save money by buying inexpensive articles if they do not fulfill the service and satisfaction required of them.

Your assurance of value lies in a known name—and such assurance has double weight these days when it costs twice as much to take chances. Irrespective of where you buy your shoes, we earnestly recommend that you give your shoe purchases careful consideration and make them where you are receiving 100% value. For our own part we would like to have you inspect and wear Thayer McNeil shoes.

Since 1881 our business has shown steady progress, which seems to us to be an endorsement of our policy of considering value of paramount importance. In buying Thayer McNeil shoes you have the knowledge of full satisfaction guaranteed and the advantage of 39 years' experience in filling the footwear needs of an increasing and discriminating clientele.

BOSTON LEADS IN NAVAL AIR RECRUITS

Hundreds of Thousands to Be Expended in U. S. Campaign for Men

The biggest advertising campaign on record has been opened by the government to fill vacancies in the naval aviation service, and hundreds of thousands of dollars will be spent to attain this end.

Although Boston leads all other cities to date in recruiting for this service, the stations at Coco Solo, Canal Zone, San Diego, Cal., Anacostia, D. C., Pensacola, Fla., Chatham, Rockaway Beach, N. Y., Hampton Roads, Va., Key West, Fla., Cape May, N. J., and Akron, O., are all proving attractive to recruits. The lighter-than-air dirigible balloon training is given at Akron.

MAY PICK TRAINING STATION.

At present it is possible for those recruited to choose the station at which they will train, but this will soon be changed, as several of the stations are rapidly filling their quota.

Ensign E. J. Connell of Pittsburgh, Pa., a graduate of Pennsylvania State College, is now on detached service in Boston in connection with the recruiting drive, and will explain this important branch of the navy to prospective recruits. He is stationed at No. 51 Cornhill. He is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and took his flight training at San Diego, Cal.

He served at Pensacola, Fla., as an instructor in aero gunnery and bombing. He was a member of the air squadron which greeted President Wilson on his return from Europe, and which later greeted General John Pershing.

The welcoming squad consisted of a fleet of H-16 hydroplanes, a type of seaplane carrying eight men, and but slightly smaller than the NC-4, which, piloted by Lieutenant-Commander Reed, made the historic across-the-Atlantic flight. The H-16 has a spread of ninety-seven feet, is run by two Liberty motors, and weighs six tons. It carries seven machine guns.

EXPECTS HEAVY RECRUITING.

In planes of this type Ensign Connell and his fellow members of the welcoming fleet flew twenty miles out to sea to meet the Leviathan with General Pershing aboard. Despite a thick fog they located the ship and flew above her until she had docked at Hoboken, after which they flew over New York.

Ensign Connell looks for a wave of enthusiasm all over the country as a result of the trans-continental air race, and believes that with all the other world powers planning to increase their air fleets, the United States will maintain its place in the front rank.

POWERFUL PILE REMEDY DISCOVERED

Has Never Failed to End Most Obstinate Case of Piles in Few Days

For years it has been proved that so-called external remedies applied to or inserted in the rectum cannot cure piles, and at the best can only give temporary relief. Surgical operations also do not remove this cause, but simply the formation.

This wonderful prescription, known as Miro Pile Remedy, is so efficient in the treatment of piles that even chronic cases of from 20 to 30 years standing with profuse bleeding have been completely relieved in from three to ten days. Think of it! Just a few doses of a carefully balanced prescription and the most persistent case of piles is absorbed, never to return. The W. R. Hunt Co. of Cambridge and Roxbury Crossing dispense Miro or can get it for you on short notice. Surely it's worth the little trouble to obtain it to be rid of piles forever.

IMPORTANT—What is known as itching piles are not piles in the true sense of the word, although this condition may accompany a true case of piles. For this condition Miro Pile Ointment has been prepared, as in such cases it is not necessary to take the internal prescription.—Advertisement.

BODY'S GLANDS LIKE MOTORS, SAYS DOCTOR

Famous French Surgeon Reveals Basis of His Startling Grafting Process

By DR. SERGE VORONOFF.

The famous French surgeon, who has just startled the world with his discovery of youth restoration.

Written Expressly for Universal Service.

Special Cable Dispatch.

Paris, Oct. 21.—Our bodies are like motors, in which the glands correspond to the magneto, furnishing the vital spark. But the body differs from the engine, in that it has a considerable number of "magnetos," activating the various vital working parts of the system.

THYROID SUPPLIES BRAIN.

The thyroid gland, for instance, supplies the power of thought to the brain. Just above the thyroid gland are two minute formations, each with a head not larger than that of a pin. These are called parathyroid glands.

Were I to remove these, the man would die of tetanic convulsions within the space of six hours. Why? Because the parathyroid glands perform the mysterious function of subjecting the muscles to the human will and protecting them from tetanic action.

Even as a motor may continue running minus the cylinder, a man may live minus lung, kidney or stomach. But remove the magneto, and the engine is dead. By the same token, remove certain glands, and the man dies immediately.

GIVE FORCE TO HEART.

Just above the kidneys there are two small glands, whose removal would kill a man in the wink of an eye. These surrenal glands, as they are called, supply the magic fluid known as "adrenaline."

From these insignificant morsels of tissue flows the medium of a tremendous force, giving the heart the strength to beat a billion times every thirty years.

CANDIDATE DEFIES POLICE AT RALLY

Hurling defiance at the police, John Murphy, a former army captain, independent candidate for Senator in the Third District, held an open-air rally—attended by nearly 4000 people—in Flood square, the junction of Broadway, Emerson and I streets, South Boston. This was the first street meeting since the beginning of the police strike.

Chasing a violation of the city laws, Captain John J. Rooney of Station 12, City Point, attempted to prevent the rally. Asked to candidate what law was being violated, Captain Rooney announced that he would "apply for a warrant." The police then directed attention to moving the crowd.

WINTHROP WOMAN GETS DIVORCE AND ALIMONY

Miss Reina Brittan of No. 43 Forest street, Winthrop, whose suit for divorce brought much sensation in evidence in the divorce session of the Suffolk County Superior Court, was granted a decree nisi by Judge Fox. She was also given the custody of her three-year-old child, Miriam, and alimony of $6 a week. Mrs. Brittan while on the stand testified her husband called her a "crawling worm."

Red Cross Nurse Meets Soldier She Thought Buried in France

Lawrence, Oct. 21.—William Taylor, a member of the Liberty Division, who was severely injured in France after the armistice, thinks that this is a very small world. In a local hospital corridor he met the Red Cross nurse who cared for him following the accident.

The nurse inquired: "Is your name Taylor?"

When he replied, "Yes," the nurse refused to believe him, as she was sure that Taylor had been buried in a French cemetery.

Every doctor who attended him, with one exception, said that Taylor would die from his injuries. Twice it was decided to amputate his leg. He still has the leg and feels better than when he went over.

NOTED RUSSIAN SINGER NOW RABID 'RED' LEADER

Paris, Oct. 21.—The famous Russian baritone Chaliapine, who is well known in America, is now a rabid Bolshevik leader. News to this effect was brought to Paris today by Maria Kousnezoff, the noted singer, who is back from an eighteen-months' sojourn in Moscow.

SEPARATION OF HANNAS DENIED BY WIFE

Stockbridge, Oct. 21.—Dismissing as "a sweet morsel of scandal" a story to the effect that she and her husband, Dan R. Hanna, son of the late Senator Mark A. Hanna, had separated, Mrs. Hanna characterized the theft of $50,000 of her jewels as a closed incident and said she and her husband are living in a cottage because life in their mansion is too expensive.

The discharge by Mrs. Hanna of the detectives employed in connection with the theft of $50,000 of jewels from Mrs. Hanna's well-known collection, together with the fact that Hanna is seldom to be seen about, had given rise to a number of rumors, among them one to the effect that Mrs. Hanna and her husband, who has been married four times, had separated.

The fact that the Hannas are living, not in the splendid mansion on the hill, but in "Bony Briar Cottage," some distance from the villa, added to the rumors in circulation.

While Mrs. Hanna, seen at the palatial cottage, was quite willing to discuss her domestic affairs in general, she declined to give much information regarding the discharge of the detectives employed to find her jewels.

"Are the jewels still missing?" she was asked.

"We never found them," she answered.

"I don't mind letting you see Mr. Hanna," she said as she piloted the reporter up a flight of stairs to a room where Mr. Hanna was asleep.

"That doesn't look as if he and I had separated, does it?" she asked.

VERMONT BOY HUNTER ACCIDENTALLY KILLS SELF

Hartford, Vt., Oct. 21.—While hunting, in company with his stepfather, [illegible] Melendy, nine-year-old Leslie Hodgdon accidentally shot and instantly killed himself.

The boy's gun slipped from his hand, struck a rock, and was discharged.

American Cinema Stock Is Booming

Public Is Rushing to Take Advantage of Exceptional Investment Opportunity to Share in Profits Motion Picture President Predicts Will Follow in Sixty Days

Brilliant Future Shown for Great Photodrama Corporation That Has Already Produced Three Big Photo Plays Featuring Famous Picture Stars

WITH eleven days left in which you can buy American Cinema Corporation stock at $10 per share you'll have to make up your mind quickly if you want to be counted among those in line for the dividends that President Walter F. Niebuhr expects to begin paying about December first.

We only had 30,000 shares of this aggressive and progressive moving picture company's stock in the beginning, and at the rate investors all over the country are buying it, some of you who delay too long are likely to have your checks returned to you because there will be no more stock to sell. We've told you how hard we argued for a greater allotment than that 30,000 shares, and how we failed to get it. Officials of the American Cinema Corporation have never hesitated to tell us frankly that they were not anxious to sell any of their stock, and when we got our first-hand knowledge of the condition of the company and saw what its prospects were, we didn't blame them.

In our last announcement we told you of the actual production of three first-class five-reel photoplays costing from $50,000 to $75,000 each, starring Mollie King and Louise Huff, and the great feature dramas that E. K. Lincoln is now at work on. Then we told you that fourteen more big pictures with the same stars were scheduled, and three of those were actually in course of making. ALSO THAT THE FIRST OF THE PICTURE PLAYS, "GREATER THAN LOVE," HAS BEEN SOLD AT A PROFIT OF OVER 100%. The officers of the company have planned seventeen of these five super pictures to be made in the splendidly equipped studio at Glendale, Long Island, and they confidently expect them to turn in amazing profits within the next year. We even gave you the figures based on a statement by a man interested in the company and in a position to know the facts. He estimated net profits at $800,000 from America's business alone for the first seventeen pictures, to be earned by December 31st, 1920.

Great Financiers Investing

If you read our two previous advertisements you know that contracts for the foreign rights to the great American Cinema Corporation photodramas have already been signed which give the company 50% of all returns from the foreign market, and that frequently the profits from these foreign rights equal, if they do not surpass, the profits from the American rights. This contract calling for an advance payment of one-third of the cost of the picture is a peculiarly advantageous one.

You'll probably be staggered when you take your pencil and work this out. You'll probably be ready to believe us when we tell you that, in our opinion, and in the opinion of some highly conservative business men, the moving picture business is destined to be a bigger money maker proportionately than any other industry in America!

Just now many big financiers are interesting themselves in moving picture securities. As specialists in this kind of investment we know what we are talking of. These brilliant money kings are not wasting their energies on Jack-o'-Lanterns. They have recognized that THE MOVING PICTURE IS THE BIGGEST POWER NEXT TO THE PRESS IN THE COUNTRY, AND THAT IT IS CAPABLE OF EARNING MILLIONS IN DIVIDENDS. The great financiers have to earn real dividends on the millions entrusted to them. Another thing, they realize that people will pay for amusement when they won't pay for shoes. American Cinema is a going concern, organized under New York State laws, providing high-class amusement for all the people of the earth.

And there is another angle to this, and a tremendously big angle.

Wise, alert and up-to-date men and women realize that the educational possibilities of the screen are greater than anything the world has ever known. Greater even than the written word.

Think of that!

A few days ago one of the biggest of the moving picture magnates told us that in five years he was absolutely certain that the educational—the practical side of the moving picture would be the biggest side, and that the MILLIONS NOW BEING MADE IN PROFITS WOULD BE SMALL COMPARED WITH THE TREMENDOUS RETURNS FROM THE SCHOOLS, COLLEGES, SHOPS, FACTORIES AND GREAT INDUSTRIAL CONCERNS.

Plans for Greater Profits

Now here is where the American Cinema Corporation is wide awake. Here is where it has laid its plans so that in addition to the dividends from the photo-plays that it has made and is making and will make, its stockholders will reap other dividends from the great educational picture business it is even now building up!

Here is the definite announcement made by the officers of the American Cinema Corporation:

"In addition to the present program of photoplays it is the intention of the company to develop the educational film field. Under the able direction of its president, Walter F. Niebuhr, invaluable record files have been built up which will stand the corporation in good stead. Already the ground work has been laid for the production of educational films and unqualified financial success is assured in this rich and comparatively undeveloped territory. More than one thousand schools throughout the country have expressed a desire to contract for this service."

Company Has Great Future

We want you to consider that statement well. It proves to you that the American Cinema Corporation is a wide-awake and progressive concern. In all our knowledge of the moving picture business we have never discovered any organization that was looking so far ahead as that; that was so determined to keep in the forefront of the business; that was so up and coming in its care for its future!

The man who buys American Cinema now at the price we are enabled to offer it, viz., $10 a share for the fully paid and non-assessable stock, is laying a foundation for something as big, in our opinion, as the man laid who first invested in Bethlehem Steel, Pennsylvania Railroad, Marshall Field & Co., Union Sulphur, or Standard Oil.

Think of the profits that must have been earned to give famous Players-Lasky stock, of no par value, up to $105 a share on the New York Stock Exchange on September 30! Think of the dividends that will accrue to the first holders of that stock from the profits of $2,500,000 earned during the first six months of 1919!

There is none of the American Cinema stock left. Not as much as we wish we had for you, but if you act quickly you still have your opportunity. You can get it at the price we have quoted, but when that is gone, that finishes the transaction. When the dividend announcement is official, mark you when the stock is listed on the New York Curb, you are terribly poor judges if you will be able to buy American Cinema at several times its par value. That's our opinion.

And we want to impress upon you that all American Cinema stock is common stock; there is no preferred stock at all, so that all stockholders share equally in the profits, and the total capitalization is $600,000, divided into 120,000 shares of par value of $5 each.

Because of the tremendous earning power of this corporation as indicated in the statement of President Niebuhr that the company can pay dividends by December first; because of its favorable American and foreign contracts, this stock is being sold at $10 a share, an advance amply justified in our opinion by the achievements and prospects. We feel sure that a further advance will be seen within the next few months, and this largely owing to the fact that the net profits for the ensuing year of $800,000 represent dividends of $6.66 on each share of stock, equivalent to 133⅓% on the capitalization.

And, remember, there are the three great finished photoplays, starring Mollie King and Louise Huff, "Greater Than Love," and "Women Men forget" with Miss King in the title role, and "The Stormy Petrel" with Miss Huff as the chief player. Great, powerful, absorbing pictures, say the experts who have seen them. Then there is the coming group of E. K. Lincoln pictures with this great actor in splendid roles, the first picture now being made in the Adirondacks having been called "The Inner Voice!"

Quick Action Necessary

We are tremendously enthusiastic over this proposition. We were enthusiastic when we first learned what brilliant prospects were afoot for the American Cinema Corporation, and how carefully and intelligently and conservatively its officers had conducted it in the year that elapsed while they were spending $200,000 of their own money making pictures and getting their company into sound financial shape before they were willing to let you buy a share of the stock.

We are MORE ENTHUSIASTIC today because we have had splendid demonstration of the confidence the investing public has in this excellent moving picture stock. You have delighted us with your response to our invitation to purchase, and we find our enthusiasm is STILL GROWING.

Only Eleven Days Left

Don't delay about this matter. You have but eleven days in which to get your order in. When this allotment of stock is gone, you will get no more, if we are capable of judging. The stock is moving rapidly, and you had better clip the coupon below, fill it out and send it along with your check, express or money order TODAY.

And if you for any reason want to withdraw your money any time within ten days after you have sent it to us, notify us and we will return you every penny of it.

James J. Hill used to say "DO IT NOW." We echo his wise words.

Mabel McKinley--Niece of the Late President of the United States--Takes Nuxated Iron for Health and Strength

And Says She Regards It as The Ideal Tonic For All Weak, Run-Down, Nervous Women

Miss McKinley has a voice of unusual quality, and it was following her work singing for the soldiers that she became weakened and run down and had recourse to Nuxated Iron. Once more in superb physical condition, Miss McKinley says she is convinced that Nuxated Iron has no equal as a Strength, Health and Blood-Builder.

Dr. George H. Baker, Formerly Physician and Surgeon Monmouth Memorial Hospital of New Jersey, Explains Why Iron Is One of the

GREATEST OF ALL STRENGTH BUILDERS

Says: He has found nothing in his experience so effective for helping to make strong, healthy, red-blooded women as Nuxated Iron.

Every woman who wishes to possess health, strength and beauty, should carefully read this statement of Miss McKinley, who, after her parents' use of Nuxated Iron, tells of the results she obtained.

Miss McKinley says: "While I had often heard of Nuxated Iron I must admit that prior to using it myself I had no idea of its remarkable value in building up the health and strength.

"Feeling the strain imposed by months of the most exacting work sought for the soldiers in the various army encampments, together with my social engagements and charitable pursuits, I found myself in such a weakened run-down state that I feared a complete collapse.

"It seemed utterly impossible for me to drop everything and go away for a complete rest, but I realized that as my condition was serious I must either do this or find something that would help me to rebuild my waning strength and enable me to continue my activities.

"I had always been prejudiced against tonic preparations, but, for the most part, I found only acted as a temporary stimulant and usually left one worse off than ever. However, when my own physician absolutely recommended that I give a fair trial to Nuxated Iron, I decided to begin its use, with a result that after a few days the weakness and fatigue from which I suffered began to be replaced by a feeling of renewed strength and vitality. In less than three weeks' time my whole system was tingling with energy and power and I was overjoyed to find that I was once more in superb physical condition.

"Nuxated Iron has accomplished so much for me that I regard it as the ideal tonic for all weak, run-down women. As a strength, health and blood-builder, I am convinced Nuxated Iron has no equal."

In commenting on Miss McKinley's statement, regarding the efficacy of Nuxated Iron, Dr. Ferdinand King, New York, Physician and Medical Author, says: "It is my opinion that in practically nine cases out of ten, nursing nerves and failing strength and vitality are due to deficiency of iron in the blood. Many a woman who is run down, nervous and tired quickly tires out, suffers from iron deficiency and does not know it. I am convinced that there are thousands of such women who, simply by taking Nuxated Iron, might readily build up their red-blood corpuscles, increase their physical energy and get themselves back to vibrant health. By enriching the blood and increasing its oxygen carrying power, Nuxated Iron will often transform the flabby flesh, tasteless tissues, and pallid cheeks of nervous, run-down women into a glow of health, and make them look younger within a surprisingly short time."

Among other physicians asked for an opinion was Dr. George H. Baker, formerly Physician and Surgeon Monmouth Memorial Hospital, New Jersey, who says: "What women need to put roses in their cheeks and the sparkle of health in their step is not cosmetics or stimulating drugs, but a plenty of rich, pure blood. Without it no woman can do credit to herself or to her appearance. Iron is one of the greatest of all strength and blood-builders, and I have found nothing in my experience so effective for helping to make strong, healthy, red-blooded women as Nuxated Iron."

MANUFACTURERS' NOTE: Nuxated Iron, which is recommended above by physicians, is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated by the weakest stomach, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor cause the stomach to sour. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed in this city by all good druggists.

MANY IN FAVOR OF TAKING SLICE OFF COMMON

Traffic Suggestions Include Plans for Riding as Well as Walking Over It

All Bostonians do not regard the Common as hallowed ground, one learns from reading the numerous suggestions to the American's Traffic Editor for the relief of downtown traffic congestion. Several advocate taking a slice off it to widen the adjacent streets and give more room for vehicles.

One writer says he cannot see any greater desecration in riding over the Common than walking on it.

"I love Boston Common," says another, "and would be sorry to see it reduced, but I think the time has come when it is absolutely necessary to take a part of it to relieve congestion on the streets."

One man would bar all horse-drawn vehicles from the shopping district between 9 a. m. and 6 p. m. He would also like the law to prohibit advertising schemes during business hours.

Tunnels under Tremont street for the pedestrians from the Park and Boylston street subway entrances are proposed. Friends of the striking policemen believe that they should be reinstated to handle the traffic.

Suggestions should be sent to the Traffic Editor, Boston American:

WOULD LOWER CURB.

Cohasset, Mass., Oct. 17, 1919.
Traffic Editor, Boston American:

I would suggest that the city lower the curb-stone at Tremont (which marks the extent of the Common on these streets) to a lower level or the grade of Tremont and Boylston streets. This would still show the extent of the Common and show its boundaries. Then the city could widen the named streets to the width necessary for traffic. I can't see where any harm would come if we were allowed to ride as well as walk over the Common.

GEORGE H. SEELEY,
P. O. Box 280.

WANTS HORSES BARRED

Boston, Oct. 18, 1919.
Traffic Editor, Boston American.

I suggest an ordinance prohibiting horse-drawn vehicles on the principal streets in the shopping district between 9 a. m. and 6 p. m., as I believe from personal observation that one team will blockade traffic more than fifty automobiles.

There are many thoroughfares in this State where automobiles are forbidden, so it would not be any worse to prohibit horses on certain streets where the majority of the people would be benefited.

I would also suggest that all unnecessary vehicles, such as advertising schemes, be prohibited from that district during the congested hours.

EARL W. PRATT.
No. 786 Washington street.

TUNNELS FOR PEDESTRIANS.

Traffic Editor, Boston American:

The traffic congestion can be greatly relieved by installing a tunnel for the pedestrians from the Park street and Boylston street subway entrances on the Common to the other side of Tremont, or have outlets on Winter, West and Boylston so there pedestrians can cross to the Common without holding up vehicle traffic.

MISS WOOLLEY WILL ADDRESS SUFFRAGISTS

Plans to meet the increasing demands of women to train themselves for their new responsibilities as citizens will be worked out at the Fall meeting of the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association at Springfield, Tuesday, Oct. 28.

The institute will have its first session Tuesday morning, and the Fall business meeting of the association will take place at 2 p. m.

That evening at the residence of Mrs. James H. Van Sickle, chairman of the Citizenship Committee of Springfield, the institute program will be resumed. The general topic of the evening will be "Education in Massachusetts," and the speakers are Miss Mary E. Woolley, president of Mt. Holyoke College; Charles D. Kingsley of the State Board of Education and Senator Crocker Burlingham, chairman of the Recess Education Committee.

Wednesday the institute will continue, with morning and afternoon sessions at 10:30 and 2:30, in the Lower Lecture Hall, City Library, on State street.

RECEPTION FOR SCHOOL HEAD IN BROOKLINE

Oscar C. Gallagher, recently appointed superintendent of schools in Brookline, will be tendered a reception Wednesday evening in the hall of the Edward Devotion School on Harvard street, arranged by the School Committee. Besides Mr. Gallagher, addresses will be made by Dr. Payson Smith, State Commissioner of Education, and Dr. Frank V. Thompson, superintendent of schools in Boston. An invocation will be given by Rev. Abbot Peterson of the First Parish Church of Brookline.

French Journal Fears British Annexation of Danzig Port

By Universal Service.
Special Cable Dispatch.

Paris, Oct. 21.—Britain's policy in the Baltic and particularly as regards Danzig, is severely criticised by the newspaper L'Eclair, which says:

"England retains our sympathy, but we cannot overlook the British desire to create a zone of influence in the Baltic. Danzig is the natural complement of Riga, which is the principal centre of the region already under British influence.

"Moreover, we cannot forget the peculiar interpretation given by London to the formula of 'temporary occupation' in the instance of Egypt; and we have, therefore, the right to ask whether the British 'exclusiveness' in Danzig is not the desire to settle there indefinitely."

REALIZED LIFE'S AMBITION IN BEATING YALE

Fitzpatrick of Boston College Once Told by "Bulldog" Trainer He Would Never Be Athlete

Everybody's talking about "Jimmy" Fitzpatrick, the Boston College football player, who made a forty-seven yard drop kick and led the Boston College team to a 3-2 victory over Yale.

Everyone is boosting "Jimmy." Will every now and then some super-loyal rooter asks: "Who is this 'Jimmy' Fitzpatrick, anyhow?" And the question is echoed: Who is Jimmy Fitzpatrick and what did he ever do before he sent Yale's eleven home in defeat?

Well, Jimmy Fitzpatrick has realized the ambition of his life. He said so himself when called upon to say a word at Boston College's celebration of the great victory.

And he told of how Yale herself was to blame, because Johnny Mack, the Yale trainer, had told Fitzpatrick some years ago when the Boston College boy, then a Meriden (Ct.) High School boy, was ready to enter Yale, that Fitzpatrick would never make an athlete.

James Joseph Fitzpatrick, who is twenty-two, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Fitzpatrick, of No. 69 Linsley avenue, Meriden, Ct., from his earliest school days has mixed into athletics, but he came near being cut out of the game when, as a schoolboy at the West Main street grammar school, he broke an arm. Those were dark days while that arm was mending.

MACK POOR PROPHET.

But mend it did, and he played football on his grammar school team, and when, in 1911, he entered the Meriden high school, he became a member of that eleven, where he soon earned homage as an extraordinary punter.

In 1915 he was made captain of the team. Under his leadership the Meriden high school team distinguished itself in 1915 as never before in the history of the institution.

When he graduated from high school a prominent Meriden lawyer wanted him to attend Yale, and tried to make arrangements to that end. But John Mack of Chelsea, the Yale coach, said that Fitzpatrick would never make an athlete. In last Saturday's game Mack had a fine opportunity to see how good a prophet he is, and also to mourn his judgment. The result was that instead of going to Yale, Fitzpatrick, through the efforts and advice of Charlie Brickley, the former Harvard star, went to Boston College, to become the idol of University Heights.

In his last year at high school he also captained the baseball and basketball teams, and at present is a pitcher of much promise on the college baseball team.

SERVED HIS COUNTRY.

The residents of Linsley avenue, Meriden, were awakened from their slumbers late Saturday night, as the result of a rousing serenade accorded the popular captain at his home here by a crowd of his fellow students returning home from the game at New Haven. Captain Jim spent Saturday night and Sunday with his parents.

In 1916, Captain Fitzpatrick entered his country's service and won a lieutenancy at the Plattsburg training camp. Upon receiving his commission there he was assigned as a lieutenant commander to Washington and Lee University as a military instructor. While there he also coached the football team.

At the conclusion of his studies at Boston College, it is Captain Fitzpatrick's intention to attend the University of Pennsylvania, where he will take a course in the study of medicine.

"JIMMY" FITZPATRICK, idol of Boston College, whose 47-yard drop-kick led his team to victory over Yale.

DOUBT LEMKE DIED BY HIS OWN HAND

Friends Believe Youth in Woman's Garb Was Slain on His Boat

New York, Oct. 21.—Dig John W. Lemke of Flushing, L. I., kill himself or was he murdered? He was found Sunday night dead, face downward, in the cabin of his boat the Mildred II.

The body was completely attired in women's clothes. Not a garment usually worn by a woman was missing.

Chief Medical Examiner Charles Norris, who performed an autopsy, says Lemke committed suicide, and that strangulation caused his death.

There is not the slightest evidence, however, say relatives and intimate friends, to warrant the theory of suicide.

Chief Inspector Cray of New York points to the fact that there was no apparent motive for suicide.

Efforts are being made to prove the general belief that while young Lemke was repairing his boat he was suddenly confronted by some man with a deranged mind, forced to don women's attire, and murdered.

The youth carried no clothes with him to the boat beyond those which he wore, and no women's garments were in the boat the day previous when friends visited him.

When the body was found by his mother, Mrs. William Iv Lemke, it lay on the floor. The wrists had been securely tied behind his back with a stout window cord.

Completely enveloping his head was a black oilcloth securely held by a stout rope, professionally tied into a hangman's knot.

It was learned that about 1 o'clock on Sunday he rode on his motorcycle to the foot of Seventh avenue, College Point. His boat, valued at $6,000, was anchored about 300 feet away. At the pier he met his friend, Henry Buffert.

BUENOS AIRES GIVES $3,000 TO JEWS' FUND

Louis E. Kirstein Addresses Charity Drive Workers at City Club Luncheon

A cablegram sent from Buenos Aires by Arnold Hartmann, containing a pledge for $3,000, has just been received by Louis E. Kirstein, campaign director for the $500,000 drive of the Federated Jewish Charities of Boston. The drive, which is to extend over a period of ten days, was formally launched Sunday evening.

LUNCHEON FOR WORKERS.

Today a luncheon was served at the City Club for the workers in the campaign. Addresses were delivered by Louis E. Kirstein, Albert W. Kaufenburgh and Samuel H. Waldstein and reports were given by the heads of the various committees on the efforts of a day and a half. Similar meetings of the workers will be held daily in order to familiarize the community with the progress of the campaign.

"We want to make this the supreme accomplishment in the history of local charity," declared Mr. Kirstein, in discussing the needs of the Federated Jewish Charities. "We are resolved through this campaign to place all of the splendid agencies supported by the Federated Jewish Charities on a sound basis so to uphold the cherished traditions of the Jewish people that none among us shall ever want or remain ill or in any way suffer because of lack of funds in needful assistance."

PLEDGES REPORTED.

The following pledges are the latest reported at campaign headquarters.

$5,000 each—Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Rabinsky, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Barnet, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Rudnick, Mr. and Mrs. J. Silverman, Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Kirstein, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Burgin, Arnold Hartmann.

$2,500 each—Mr. and Mrs. Felix Vercheny, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Mendel, Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Cohen, Mr. and Mrs. Felix M. Rosenthal, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rosenthal, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rudnick, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rudnick, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kaufenburgh, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kaufenburgh, Mr. and Mrs. Abraham

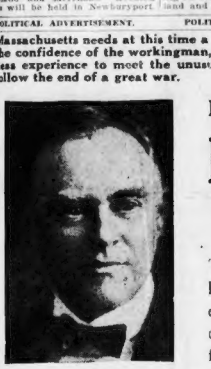
MANY MORE RALLIES FOR LONG THIS WEEK

Richard H. Long, Democratic nominee for Governor, who has held 175 rallies since he received the nomination, with other candidates on the State ticket tonight will conduct political meetings in Woburn, Medford, Malden, Everett and Melrose. Wednesday they will start at Gloucester, followed by meetings in Rockport, Manchester, Essex, Ipswich, Groveland and Merrimac. Evening rallies will be held in Newburyport, Beverly, Amesbury and Haverhill. On Thursday the first rally will be held at Easton in the forenoon, followed by Mansfield, Canton, Franklin, Medfield, Medway, Millis, Sharon and Walpole with evening rallies in Attleboro, North Attleboro and Taunton.

Weymouth will be the scene of the first meeting Friday, followed by East Weymouth, South Weymouth, Braintree, Hingham, Cohasset, Hanover and North Abington, with evening rallies at Whitman, Quincy, Rockland and Brockton.

POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT. POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT.

Massachusetts needs at this time a Governor who has the confidence of the workingman, and also the business experience to meet the unusual conditions that follow the end of a great war.



RICHARD H. LONG

meets these requirements

Take off the party label and nearly every voter would choose Long before Coolidge.

Long's friends wonder why he leaves his business interests for public life. He knows that the opportunities for public work are better worth while than private gain.

Because of his early employment as a shoe maker, and his knowledge of human nature, he has had cordial relations with the employees, and places the rights of the man before the rights of property.

He was the first shoe manufacturer to establish an eight hour work day.

He is a successful business man and keen student of public affairs. His victory over monopoly in shoe machinery, in 1906 and 1907 showed his ability to fight and win against great odds.

His campaign last year, both at the Primary and Election, surprised his friends and opponents. His Primary victory this year was even more successful.

He has waged a most aggressive campaign and driven his opponents to confusion and distress, and his election is assured.

The same enterprise and business-like management of the State will bring harmony and contentment to our citizens, and prosperity to our Commonwealth. Voters should forget the party label and unite for the man Massachusetts needs.

CALLS MONTANA PLAN FOR IRISH 'RED HERRING'

O'Connell Denounces Proposal of Senator Walsh; League a "Packed Court"

Washington, Oct. 21.—In a letter sent to Senator Lodge, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, by Daniel T. O'Connell, director of the Irish National Bureau, the resolution introduced by Senator Walsh of Montana asking for action by the League of Nations on Ireland's claim for self-government is denounced as "a red herring drawn across the trail," and the League of Nations, as at present constituted, is called a "packed court."

The letter, in part, reads:

"Dear sir—The resolution offered Friday, October 17, by Senator Walsh of Montana, wherein is sought an expression of opinion by the Senate that following ratification of the League of Nations Covenant and the Peace Treaty 'the state of affairs in Ireland and the right of its people to self-government, be presented by the United States to the Council or Assembly of the League,' should be understood by the Committee on Foreign Relations and the Senate as in no sense sanctioned by those who, on August 20, appeared before the Foreign Affairs Committee, and spoke in behalf of the 20,000,000 Americans of Irish blood.

"Ireland was denied a hearing at Paris, though the United States Senate, by a vote of 60 to 1 adopted a resolution asking for a hearing. That resolution was stronger than the resolution now offered by the Senator from Montana. It was the voice of the American people speaking in behalf of a small nation bowed down by oppression. The oppressor had no difficulty, by diplomatic wiles, in prevailing on the American delegates to ignore the resolution of the United States Senate.

"If the League of Nations covenant, containing the objectionable provisions supported by Senator Walsh of Montana, is ratified, Great Britain will have six votes and the United States one. It is ludicrous to expect justice before a court so constituted, and more particularly when the power, the voice and the vote of the delegates from the United States would be controlled absolutely by the same influences that contemptuously ignored the Senate's prior resolution and denied the hearing then asked.

"Offer at this time of a resolution asking for a hearing after the court has been packed and the oppressing nation has the United States entangled into an alliance which compels the United States to abide by the decision of the packed court, cannot be viewed by those authorized to speak for the 20,000,000 Americans of Irish blood, as an act springing from a sincere desire to aid Ireland. Rather, must it be viewed as an instance of 'drawing the red herring across the trail,' and an attempt to divide forces which unitedly are striving to save America as well as Ireland."

BOY SCOUT EXECUTIVE DENIED FUNDS, RESIGNS

The executive committee of the First Middlesex Council of Boy Scouts will meet tonight in Waltham Public Library, to consider the resignation of Edward E. Freeman, Boy Scout executive of that city. Mr. Freeman, who succeeded Hugo Siekel when the latter resigned some time ago, declared there was too much opposition and criticism on the part of the council. He said that requests for budget increases had been flatly refused, and that he had found it impossible to go on with the Boy Scout work.

MAY HOLD NIGHT COURT IN SALEM MURDER TRIAL

Salem, Oct. 21.—Judge Callahan, who is presiding at the trial of Sulerman and Inbrahan Hassan, charged with second degree murder in causing the death of Alli Hassan, in front of a Boston street coffee house, stated in court today that the trial would have to be speeded up or night sessions might result. The trial has entered on its second week.

Men Scarce, 2,000,000 Girls to become Old Maids

By International News Service.

London, Oct. 21.—There are two million "bachelor girls" in Great Britain who have given up all hope of getting husbands because of the shortage of men, according to Hilda M. Love, a prominent woman writer.

Miss Love declared that a new comradeship is growing up among women as a result of the involuntary reduction of marriages. There are many instances, she said, especially among workers, where two or more girls have established a home together, adopting orphaned children to rear. Thus they find some of the comforts of home and family life, despite the absence of husbands.

CASH AND CARRY SALES AT NEW HIGH MARK

The highest mark in the army retail stores "cash-and-carry" sales was reached yesterday with $19,607.52 receipts, according to Colonel E. L. Glasgow today.

The mail order shipments for the same day were valued at $10,085.22, while the department received $12,000 in orders through the mails. The total amount of mail order business since the opening of the stores is $240,890.

There is an enormous demand for bacon, Colonel Glasgow stated, and the Providence store dealt only in that commodity yesterday, selling $1,121 worth. The Worcester store did a business of $4,681.43, selling clothing for the first time, while Fall River sales for the day were $2,256.20.

Colonel Glasgow stated that evidently a mistake had been made in the new underwear, the shirts being shipped to some other depot. A shipment of these is expected and upon its arrival the underwear will go on sale.

The best seller in the mail order department is canned corned beef, one pound cans at 23 cents, it was stated. There is also a good demand for 12-pound cans of bacon at $2.75, baked beans at 9 cents and dry beans at 6½ cents.

Federal detectives are investigating stores which are alleged to have sold army goods at a profit. It is said that a number of these have been discovered, and will be dealt with by the Army Intelligence Department.

Coming Events

COLONIAL THEATRE—At the Colonial Theatre next Monday will be presented a new musical revue, George White's "Scandals of 1919," which ran all last Summer in New York at the Liberty Theatre. Ann Pennington, so long the star dancer with the Follies and a great favorite with Boston theatre goers is a leading attraction. Others in the company are: Yvette, Rugel, Adele Ardsley, Ethel Delmar, Ona Munson, Lou Holtz, Lesser Allen, George Rickel, Al Sexton and Lowell H. Drew.

TREMONT THEATRE—Next Monday evening at the Tremont Theatre Leo Ditrichstein will begin a two weeks' engagement in his latest success, "The Marquis of Priola," the modern French drama written by Henri Lavendan of the French Academy. This play created a sensation in New York last season, revealing its experience in the French capital. In this play Mr. Ditrichstein has a congenial role.

PARK SQUARE THEATRE—"The Challenge," by Eugene Walter, a serious drama dealing with the present-day social unrest, comes to the Park Square Theatre next Monday. Holbrook Blinn will appear in the leading role, supported by Allan Dinehart, Ben Johnson, Louise Dyer and others.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE—After five years absence from the Boston stage, E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe will return here on Monday, November 3, for an engagement of Shakespearean repertoire. As a result of this announcement two sets of treasurers, one at the Boston Opera House and one at the Little Building, are being kept busy filling mail orders for seats. The engagement will open with "The Taming of the Shrew," which will be repeated Tuesday matinee (election day), Tuesday night and Wednesday night. "Twelfth Night will be played Thursday, Friday, Saturday night and Saturday matinee of the first week.

TREMONT TEMPLE—Beginning next Monday Mary Pickford will appear at Tremont Temple in the second picture from her own studio, "The Hoodlum." This is described as her merriest, most "charming scarum" characterization, and gives "Our Mary" the chance for the greatest character part of her career.

Other Theatres

MALDEN AUDITORIUM—Two capacity houses visited the Auditorium in Malden yesterday and viewed an excellent revival by the Temple Stock Company of Eugene Walters' brilliant play, "Just a Woman."

UPHAM'S CORNER STRAND—Nazimova in her latest picture, "The Brat," at the Upham's Corner Strand was greeted with enthusiasm. On the same bill was shown Arthur Stringer's mystery film, "The House of Intrigue."

CAPTAIN SMITH ENDS HIS RACE WESTWARD

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 21.—Captain Lowell H. Smith, leading the westbound fliers in the trans-continental air derby, arrived at the Presidio landing field at 9:50 this morning.

THEATRES

MRS. FISKE IN ROMANCE OF THE SOUTH

Mrs. Fiske, as "Mis' Nelly of N'Orleans," opened an engagement at the Hollis Street Theatre last night with this new three-act comedy by Laurence Eyre. Hamilton Revelle and Georges Renavent were in the cast, which included also Dorothy Day, Joseph Greene, Gertrude Chase, Clarissa Stem, Eva Benton and Flora Walker.

Nelly Daventry, a New Orleans belle of the '50's, returns after many years abroad to the old Southern home and garden on St. Charles street where her girlhood was spent. It develops that on the eve of her wedding, years before, she had run away to Paris under a cloud, her betrothal having been broken by the man suddenly and without explanation. Mis' Nelly returns, middle-aged, but virtually young, to find her niece Delphine betrothed to Felix Durand, son of Mis' Nelly's former fiance. Both Nelly and Georges Durand violently fight the match.

The young people are obdurate. Nelly Daventry finds her old lover a well preserved, handsome middle-aged seamp, ready to resort to unscrupulous means to prevent the marriage.

The substance of the play is the struggle between these two. In the course of action, Nelly throws off about twenty-five or thirty years of her age, and on a night of Mardi Gras revels, stages a little plot in the romantic old garden.

It succeeds only too well. Either the moonlight, the music or the old Moselle, brought out for the occasion, goes to the head of the susceptible males, and Mis' Nelly comes very near finding the denouement of her little comedy taken out of her hands.

A pleasant plot, not too extravagant for the Mardi Gras season, and made plausible by the excellent acting of the entire company. Mrs. Fiske was seen at her best in the role of the irresistible Nelly Daventry, whom age cannot wither nor custom stale. In the ball dress of her flirting days, which she dons in the second act, she appeared again to her old lover as the girl he loved in the pride of youth. In the moonlit garden, with an al fresco supper table for a setting, the old misunderstanding is revived, and explained. Each tells his part of the story: Nelly, how she was persuaded in the long ago; Georges, how he stole to her garden to gaze at her window by night, and saw her admit a stranger; and the old priest and lifelong friend, how Nelly had stood by him and helped him recover a forged note which her father held as a gambling debt.

In a brief curtain speech, which she made after prolonged insistence on the part of the audience, Mrs. Fiske referred to the incidental music, apologizing that it was a trifle too loud. But for this slight defect, the performance was admirable throughout. Mrs. Fiske had a congenial role, and made the most of every phrase and gesture. Mr. Renavent, a young French actor appearing for the first time in an English-spoken play, was well cast; and Mr. Revelle sustained the high reputation as an actor that he had already made.

MODERN AND BEACON THEATRES—Unusually interesting pictures are shown at the Modern and Beacon Theatres this week, where a detective mystery story, dramatized from a famous French novel, is being featured. This is "The Teeth of the Tiger," a story of Arsene Lupin, the French Sherlock Holmes. The plot centres about a baffling murder, in which the great detective's skill and daring are tested to the uttermost. In addition, Douglas McLean and Doris May are seen in "Twenty-three and-a-half Hours' Leave," dramatized from Mary Roberts Rinehart's popular story. Charlie Chaplin is also seen in "The Floor Walker."

Plays That Remain

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE—"Monte Cristo, Jr.," brilliant Winter Garden show, entered upon its last fortnight last night. The spectacle includes nearly twenty scenes, with a large array of chorus beauties and an excellent cast.

PARK SQUARE THEATRE—"Buddies," war play by George V. Hobart, with music by R. C. Hilliam, opened its tenth and last week here.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE—Tenth week of "Breakfast in Bed," a laughing hit, with Florence Moore and a sprightly cast, including Leon Gordon, Will Deming and others.

SHUBERT THEATRE—Lew Fields in "A Lonely Romeo" entered upon his second week here. The piece is a musical comedy, with a real plot, catchy music and scores of pretty girls.

WILBUR THEATRE—"The Guest of Honor," written by and featuring William Hodge, opened its second week here. An excellent cast includes June Houston.

TREMONT THEATRE—Last week here of "A Prince There Was," with Grant Mitchell. A modern fairy tale of New York high and humble life.

COLONIAL THEATRE—Cecil Lean and Cleo Mayfield in "Look Who's Here," began their last week at this theatre. The piece is a bright musical comedy.

ARLINGTON THEATRE—"Romeo and Juliet," with Miss Mary Young as Juliet and Mr. Craig in the role of Mercutio, who repeated at the Arlington Theatre for the beginning of the second week in Shakespearean repertoire. The last performance of "Hamlet" will take place tonight. "Romeo and Juliet" will be repeated tomorrow afternoon and evening. Beginning Thursday evening, "Othello" will be the bill for the remainder of the week.

TREMONT TEMPLE—Mary Pickford is now on the nineteenth and last week of her engagement in "Daddy Long-Legs" at the Tremont Temple, with large and enthusiastic audiences witnessing every performance.

PARK THEATRE—"Checkers," the famous racing play, entered upon its last week at the Park Theatre, with an all-star cast. Bostonians will have their last opportunity to see this sporting "thriller" for five more days.

MAJESTIC THEATRE—Offenbach's famous opera bouffe, "La Belle Helene," under the translated title of "Fair Helen," opened at the Majestic Theatre with Marcia Van Dresser in the leading role. The piece is a modernized version of the celebrated opera, the music unchanged, the libretto rewritten to suit the times, with lyrics by the poet, Charles Hanson Towne. A deeply interested and well entertained audience greeted the revival, which had all the aspect of an entirely new production. A review of the performance will be given in these columns tomorrow.

DANCING ACT HEADLINER AT KEITH'S

Kitty Doner is the headline attraction at Keith's this week, but there are several other acts giving her a close race for the honors. It could almost be called an all-star bill. No program at the vaudeville house this season has contained so many performers of stellar ability.

Miss Doner, who was last seen here as a star with Al Jolson in "Sinbad," dances through three numbers in male attire which she wears with distinction. Then she presents an Arabian dance sextet, with special scenery and three real Arabs to give the local color. Kitty has associated with her Rose Doner and Bobby Dale.

James C. Morton, long famous as a comedian, is back at Keith's with his family. They give a comedy travesty, in which the senior Morton does a number of his old tricks and a few new ones besides.

Kellam and O'Dare call their mirth provoking songs and chatter "Chasing the Blues." Mr. Kellam is an individual of angular and loosely-jointed proportions, who gets a roar for every pose.

William Sully, an exceptionally clever juggler, and Genevieve Houghton in a running conversation give a clever offering.

"Here's to Erin," is a pleasing sketch of life in an Irish cottage, presented by Larry Reilly and Grace Allen.

Billy Potter and Effie Hartwell have a talking and dancing act, and Marconi and Pagalbonos fulfill their claim as "two sons of music." Elida Morris gives character vocal numbers. The Asahi troupe of Jap magicians give a clever exhibition of their art. The kinograms and topics of the day complete the bill.

ORPHEUM THEATRE—Merit and variety feature the bill presented at Loew's Orpheum Theatre, which is repeated today and tomorrow. As headliner in the vaudeville, Jack Levy and the Four Symphony Sisters present "A Study in Melody." Others on the bill include Marie Russell with a "study in brown"; Russell and Titus in an amusing skit; William Seville and Gladys, in songs; Tapuan and Armstrong, two clever girls, and Dyas and Rector, athletes. The remainder of the bill offers world events in motion pictures, a new Pathe weekly and the initial Boston showings of Gladys Brockwell in "Shame and Scandal," a tale with a big heart interest, nearly all of the scenes being laid in the West.

WALDRON'S CASINO—Bob Welch, the famous Hebrew comedian, came to Waldron's Casino this week with a new show, a big feature of which is one of the monologues for which Welch has become celebrated. The company includes Pat Kearney, Frank P. Murphy, "Dimples" Dolly Morrissey, Vic Casmore and the Welch dancing girls. The music, dancing and costumes are special features.

BOSTON THEATRE—At the Boston Theatre was seen E. Phillips Oppenheim's modern romance, "Lord Anthony's Wife," with Henry R. Walthall in the title role. The play is a story of modern finance, of speculations and intrigue.

COLUMBIA THEATRE—Patrons of Loew's Columbia Theatre were offered plenty of variety in the list of feature photoplays shown yesterday. For today there will be screened Peggy Hyland in "Merry Go Round" and Hale Hamilton in "His Brother's Keeper."

GAYETY THEATRE — The Lew Kelly show, headed by Lew Kelly himself, made its first appearance of the season at the Gayety Theatre to capacity audiences. Kelly has a new show, called the "Submarine Maids," an excellent material well suited to the comedian. The costumes are brilliant and the scenery is pleasing to the eye.

HOWARD ATHENAEUM—At the Howard Athenaeum the Face Makers' Company, with Harry Seymour, gave a burlesque show that made an immediate hit. Florence Tanner, Rose Allen, Dave Davidson, Sid Winter, Joe Wilson and Walter Van contributed their share of enjoyment.

BOWDOIN SQ. THEATRE—Tom Mix was seen at the Bowdoin Sq. Theatre in the film feature, "Rough Riding Romance." Two scenes show Washburn in "Why Smith Left Home" and Corinne Griffith in "The Climber" remain only two days more at this theatre. Thursday a new program with the Paramount Artcraft special, "The Spirit of '76," and Vivian Martin in "His Official Fiancee" will be presented.

"The Snares of Paris," are being shown. In the former Gladys Brockwell is the leading player with a host of other capable screen artists, seen in characters true to life. The latter features Madaline Traverse.

FENWAY THEATRE—Bryant

TIGER ASKS BREAD OF VICTORY

Stone of Defeat, However, Seems Princeton's Portion With Colgate as Rival

By CHARLES E. PARKER.

There is an oft-quoted passage which speaks quite disparagingly of an individual who, in answer to a plea for nourishing bread, smilingly donates a chunk of granite.

Princeton men are entirely in sympathy with the sentiment expressed. For many years the Tigers have been clamoring for thick, white slices of the bread of victory to be served them each Autumnal Saturday.

But unsympathetic cooks have sometimes prepared the dough and—particularly when a certain green-aproned force made up the mixture—a tooth-breaking rock quite often found its way into the loaf. Whereupon Tiger jaws, with rare alacrity released their distasteful bite; Tiger faces registered painful consternation, and Tiger howls rent the air.

Such experiences, coming as they did just as Tiger teams were attaining their full growth, banished almost all the pleasure any remaining weekend feasts might have offered, and, in consequence, this year the green-aproned force was forbidden to enter Princeton's cement kitchen.

There was a worrying about to locate a set of victory bread-mixers to replace the unsympathetic green-aproned crew. The preservation of Tiger teeth being the all-important desire, the name Colgate quite naturally cropped up and from this came the selection of a force of football cooks from the New York State college of that name.

BANKHART RECONSIDERED.

Laurie Bankhart was not the chief cook at Colgate when the selection was made, nor was it definitely known that three or four of his former pupils would be included, as Tiger lips smacked in fond anticipation of their visit.

But Bankhart reconsidered his original intention of quitting football coaching and "All-America" Anderson and "All-America" West and sundry others decided to complete their courses under Laurie. And with Tiger teeth still tender from a sorry Lafayette concoction that was finally swallowed and with Colgate cooks enjoying a reputation for dropping pebbles, stones into their football mixtures, Tiger lips no longer are smacking and erstwhile perky Tiger tails are developing a downward and forward tendency.

The football interest of the East will center largely on Saturday's Princeton-Colgate contest. Contributing in developing this wide interest is the first and only tussle between a member of the Harvard-Yale-Princeton triumvirate and one of the leading championship contenders outside that self-selected circle. On it will depend, in all probability, the final rating of the big Eastern teams.

HOPE SPRINGS ANEW.

Yale, Harvard, Dartmouth and, occasionally, smaller institutions, have met cleated heels in Princeton's football hopes in past years and, with reckless abandon, ground it into the dirt. Yet, with a regularity that is unique, this sweet Princeton flower blossoms forth each Fall, apparently unscathed and unscarred by such treatment.

The Tigers have an excellent quarterback in Strubing, and what appears to be a really good tackle in Kay. Aside from these two players little that has impressed the observer has been shown by members of the Tiger team. Roper, who is Princeton's new coach, is known better as a driver of ready-made players than a teacher of green ones, and this season the Tiger squad could use a real football teacher to excellent advantage.

Colgate rules the favorite for Saturday's tempest in Tigertown, and if past happenings are to serve as a basis for judging the respective strength of the two aggregations, a lop-sided score in Colgate's favor would not be surprising.

NO WRANGLING ON TEAM.

Bankhart, who adopted a scheme of football very similar to that which he learned under Frank Cavanaugh while the latter was Dartmouth's coach, backs up this scheme with a great collection of football men. Anderson and Anderson, All-America ends and quarterback, respectively, a plunging fullback who narrowly missed All-America honors, Burroughs, veteran guard and end and the two halfbacks, Watkins and Laing, complete the list of weapons on the Colgate team, the few remaining positions are no slouchy already the conqueror of eleven by a more substantial than was Harvard's, and the vanquisher of the Big Ten from Cornell, 21 to 0, is entered season in quite the most schedule of any Eastern own and Cornell already ms, while Princeton, Dartmouth, Syracuse, none of whom defeated are still to be ligate survivors it will reery telling evidence to team the Eastern

Gallantry Takes Back Seat on Golf Links

By ROBERT E. HARLOW.

"Women and children first" is well recognized in shipwreck, fire or railroad smash, but it is often forgotten when it comes to a golf course. Instead, it is likely to be: "Pardon us, ladies, if we play through."

This partially explains why so few women are being developed into first-class players. A number of years ago when metropolitan golf courses were not crowded by men as they are to-day, women members had a better opportunity to practice. Then it was not deemed necessary to bar them from use of the links on Saturday afternoons and holidays, as is now a rule of many clubs.

It has been a number of seasons since the Massachusetts district had produced a women golfer capable of going far in the national championship, yet it was not so long ago that Boston representatives were the most formidable in the woman's championship events, and that the title was held here.

BUT ONE COMPETITOR.

This year but one Massachusetts player, Miss Fanny Osgood, took part in the national championship. Miss Osgood made a fair initial showing.

Women have been treated a good deal as the American Indian was treated in the early days of American history. As the white man moved westward, he kept the Indian on the run. In golf, as the men have needed more room the women have been forced to accept less. And as a result they have not had proper opportunity to develop.

MISS OSGOOD WINS.

The women could not complain Monday, however, as the Brookline Country Club course was turned over to them and they enjoyed a day of tournament play. Much interest was added to the meeting by the presence of a number of the best women players from Providence, headed by Miss Glenna Collett, the sixteen-year-old young lady who made a fine showing in the woman's national championship this month.

While Miss Osgood won the event from a field of forty starters with a round of 98, Miss Collett was third on an even 100. And then the surprise, her handicap of five giving her a net of 95.

Miss Elisabeth Gordon of Providence finished a stroke behind Miss Osgood, and was the only other player to break 100.

PROVIDENCE IN LEAD.

Providence has gone ahead of Boston this season in producing women golfers. Miss Collett and Miss Gordon being finds of this season.

While writing of women golfers it might not be amiss to remind Dan Whitney, veteran of the links at Ottawa and Montreal recently he was honored by having a golf caddy. The Prince played at Ottawa with the president of the club, and Whitney was he asked to go around with the professional, as he wished to brush up on certain shots.

Canadian papers do not give the cards returned by the Prince, but they report that he played his drives with snap, and that he did not putt any better than thousands of his future subjects.

AN INTERNATIONAL MATCH.

It is unfortunate that President Wilson is too ill at present to entertain the Prince, as under normal circumstances it is certain that the President and the Prince would engage in an international golf match at one of the Washington clubs. The result would be uncertain, as Presidents and Princes are spared the embarrassment of having their scores published.

A Washington correspondent once hinted that the President scores in the fifties, and from reading between the lines in some of the reports of the Prince's game, we should judge that the next ruler of Great Britain was in the President's class.

BRICKLEY TELLS KICKERS HOW HE DID IT

Former Harvard Star Also Shows Backfield New Way to Fame and Victory

Charley Brickley took hold of the Harvard drop kickers in the Stadium today, and hopes hereafter to be able to win games for the Crimson in New York and don football clothes in the Stadium at least once a week.

Among the men in Brickley's football class at Soldiers Field are Captain Billie Murray, Babe Felton, Arthur Hamilton, Dick Dillingham and Mitchell Gratwick. Ralph Horween, who kicks the Brickley style, is also an earnest listener at the instructions, although on account of his disjointed shoulder bone he can do no kicking.

Brickley kicked two dozen times, and from all angles and distances, and missed only one. His best effort was from the fifty-two-yard line.

SHORT SCRIMMAGE.

A short scrimmage was the program in the Stadium today. The customary blackboard talk preceded it. Eddie Casey is still limping badly, and the coaches are now fearful of having him out of the game until the trip to Princeton is made three weeks hence. Ralph Horween is in the same fix, and both are consoling the other, although the former may not be ready to show his goods until the game with Yale.

Joe Ryan's lame ankle is yielding to treatment rapidly and the chances are that the slight end star will be ready for the Virginia game on Saturday. The old Notre Dames performer is too valuable a man to lose, but the scarcity of ends may make it imperative that he start this week.

PHINNEY STILL OUT.

Morris Phinney, the only "H" wing, is still out of practice, and will not be ready to play for ten days. Hi Faxon and Jack Desmond were the frontiersmen on the varsity substitutes, and Coach Fisher turned over Ted Olmstead, Babe Frothingham and Clark Macomber on his rush line to Coach Charley Coolidge to look through.

Tommy Hitchcock, the boy aviator, who escaped from Germany during the war, is getting a chance on the substitute team, and making good. His has had little experience in learning his game fast. Tom played fullback against the second team, and made several good runs.

The subs fought the seconds thirty minutes without a score although the latter managed to get twice to their opponents' five-yard mark. Captain Murray was the only regular allowed to scrimmage, but as tackling was barred, there was little chance that the Crimson leader might be injured.

VARSITY LINEUP.

A. Horween has replaced Caney, and Church, R. Horween, and both men will probably start against Virginia. Philbin has returned to hard work, and may displace Havemeyer on Saturday. Diamond is also ready for scrimmage again.

Harry Tuthill, trainer of the Detroit Tigers, paid Percy Donovan a surprise visit. Tuthill saw the H. C. Yale game Saturday, and is in town buying football equipment. He bought several pairs of Brickley kicking boots. He is trainer for Cobb, Daly's West Pointers, and is seen to see the Army vanquish B. C. next Saturday.

LONG DRILL IN SIGNALS FOR TUFTS MEN

Coach Whelan Formulates New System of Attack for Game with Yale

Coach Whelan of Tufts put his charges through an exacting signal drill in preparation for the Yale game. He waived the scheduled light scrimmage and devoted his time and attention to cleaning up the plays that have bothered the Tufts backfield in the last two games.

With Bill Mitchell back the backfield problem has become simpler. Whelan had plenty of material behind the rushline, it is true, but almost all the candidates are players of the plunging type, whereas Mitchell is Tufts' ace in a broken field, resembling Casey of Harvard in this respect. The only other man who can match him at this game is Frankie Smith who ran rings around the Norwich ends Saturday.

Chet Sanford was in uniform but did not take part in the practice. Timber White is still out of the line and the coach has given up all hope of using him Saturday. The former Hedge Tech tackle is suffering with a badly swollen ankle and Trainer Smith has decided that the best thing to do is to give him a complete layoff for at least two weeks more.

HARVARD HARRIERS OFF TO CORNELL THURSDAY

Captain Burnham Lewis of the Harvard cross-country team will leave Cambridge Thursday night with Coach Farrell and six other runners to take part in the Syracuse University Intercollegiate run. The other Crimson harriers will be Fred Simms, Ted Ames, George Wilson, Jim Nally, Alf Douglass and Sam Harris.

STUDENTS STRIKE TO CELEBRATE GRID VICTORY

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 21.—Smashing open door locked by instructors and roughly handling professors who sought to prevent the "strike," 2,000 Syracuse University students went on a walkout to celebrate the football victory over Pittsburgh Saturday. The students held a parade and failed to report for the late classes.

LIPMAN WINS HARVARD TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP

Bob Lipman, former Pacific coast intercollegiate tennis champion, defeated Leon de Turenne for the Harvard singles title in straight sets 6-3, 7-5, 8-6.

Newark Dog Show

Newark, N. J., Oct. 21.—The Newark Kennel Club Dog Show, to be held at the First Regiment Armory on November 15, will be the banner show of this club. The list of judges comprises a number of the leading experts in their various breeds. Many handsome trophies and cash specials have been offered to be won outright. Entries close October 25, with W. H. Purcell, manager, No. 29 Broadway, New York City.

YALE HAS FIRST SCRIMMAGE OF WEEK

La Roche Relegated to the Third Eleven, Kempton Going in at Quarter

New Haven, Oct. 21.—With the longest hospital list of the season, the Yale eleven today was ordered to take its first scrimmage practice of the week in preparation for the Penn game. Captain Callahan was again rested because of the muscle bruise which kept him on the sidelines for three weeks, and Galvin, who has progressed to the varsity from the third eleven, has been given the snapback assignment. It is doubtful whether Callahan will play Saturday. The Lawrence boy is somewhat depressed by being unable to play against Nelson.

Donald Welles, Kirkpatrick, Murphy, Braden, Senner, Graham and Callahan were all absent from practice, but the positive announcement, made possible by X-ray examinations that Thorne Murphy will be able to play in the final games of the season, lifted a load from the shoulders of the coach. Murphy's injury is asserted to be a badly torn ligament, not a broken bone.

WATCH ACOSTA.

John Acosta's showing at tackle will be watched closely by the coaches this week. He was tried at center, tackle and guard during the first week of the season and then used at center, because of Captain Callahan's injury. He collapsed in that position Saturday and went to guard for the final playing period. He is too light for the guard role under Yale requirements and will be tried out at tackle. The one veteran present, Incline toward Dickens for the other tackle and started him there today, ahead of Hamill. Walker and Munger have gone back to the reserves for the present.

Bob Lay's return to left halfback has given the team the player who was picked out for that position when the squad reported. He had been out of the game practically a month because of a bad knee. The one veteran, Chester La Roche, has an uphill task on his hands to work his way back into the third eleven, where he was relegated Saturday when Herbert Kempton, another Boston boy, was made full back. In general, the position he always played till last month, when he was shifted to halfback.

JONES NOT RECALLED.

LaRoche has been keenly criticised for passing up two easy chances for Yale to score against Boston College. The coaches at present strongly incline toward recalling Kempton to be permanent selection as quarter, with LaRoche first substitute. Thorne Murphy will probably be called into the final games in an emergency which calls the best drop or place kicker on the squad.

Several newspapers have revived a story that Whelan's alma mater had been sent for Tad Jones, the former Yale head coach, to return. The story is pronounced without foundation by the athletic council which is wholly satisfied with the organization of the season's work by Dr. Al Sharpe, the new athletic director.

BROWN SQUAD GIVEN LIGHT SIGNAL WORK

Providence, Oct. 21.—Brown's practice found but few of the regulars out, and Coaches Whittemore and Halen devoted the time to light signal work. Of the whole the Brunonians came through the Harvard game in excellent condition.

Sinclair, left tackle, received a bad lump on the head, which has left him with a swollen eye, and Shurtleff, 1st guard, had his nose "knocked cross his face," but as this has occurred several times before in his football career, he paid no special attention to it and was out for practice after a doctor had "hammered" it back into position. Coulter, who served his sange at quarterback, is nursing a slightly sprained ankle.

During the next two weeks the aches will point the Brown eleven toward the Syracuse game. Norwich will play here Saturday, and the practice this week should bring the team to good condition for taking the Vermont boys into camp.

Jack Slattery New Baseball Coach at Harvard

Jack Slattery, who has been coaching the young pitchers of the Braves for the past two seasons, is Harvard's new varsity baseball mentor. Jack has attached his signature to a contract, and started his duties today on Soldiers Field. He will remain with the Harvard squad this week, and resume his work in the baseball cage next February.

Starting in 1914 Slattery coached at Tufts and remained there four seasons, turning out some of the best ball teams that ever graced College Hill. His material at Harvard is excellent, and it will be no fault of Slattery's if next Spring is not a banner baseball year at Cambridge.

SCULLY TO LEAD B. C. CROSS-COUNTRY TEAM

George Scully, '20, of Roxbury, was elected captain of the Boston College cross-country team at a meeting of the letter men of the hill and dale runners. Scully is a veteran runner and should make a capable leader. He was a star athlete while at Roxbury Latin High School, and for the past four years he has been a member of B. C.'s track team.

School Football Notes

Herb Ellis did not get in the game with Somerville Saturday. Fred O'Brien is not making any chances with his star backfield. Ellis and Kiley get into the game first of the second quarter. They will be a powerful team in the team.

Somerville High seems to have given its stride at last. In their last game they piled up more points than they did in all the other games combined, and incidentally scored on Malden. Their defensive work cannot be complained of and if they can get their offense there with the same results there will be no stopping them.

* * *

The third game to the Mystic Valley League will be played this week between Medford and Arlington. The first two games are all in favor of Medford, so he's hope there will be no trouble in this one.

* * *

Arlington High and Whitman High are showing more interest in football this season than they have for a long time. Both schools appropriated money for the teams and are helping in every way possible.

* * *

John McGowan of Cambridge Latin is starting in on one of the star drop kickers of the season. In the last game he added three points to the score by one of his kicks in the game before he put two over the post for points.

BIG SHEPHERD DOG SHOW AT MINEOLA NEXT MONTH

New York, Oct. 21.—The Shepherd Dog Club of America, composed of a number of the most prominent fanciers of the United States, will hold their annual A. K. C. specialty show at Mineola, L. I., November 22. This club has offered $1,500 in prize moneys to be divided in fifteen regular classes. This amount is exclusive of trophies and other specials to be won outright. Entries close November 14, with W. H. Purgell, manager, No. 29 Broadway, New York City.

TECH CROSS-COUNTRY MEN TO BE PICKED TODAY

About a dozen of the most likely men on Coach Frank M. Kanaly's Tech cross-country squad competed in a run over the Belmont Spring course in Waverley today to determine the make-up of the team that Tech will send to the intercollegiate cross-country run at Syracuse Saturday.

ST. MARY'S A. A. TO HAVE STRONG BASKETBALL TEAM

St. Mary's A. A. of Lynn will be represented by a fast basketball quintet. The team is after games with New England teams. Bernie Kelley of the United States Marines is secretary, and Maguire of the U. S. A., Tegan, and Fogarty, forwards; Twomey and Rooney, backs, with O'Connor and O'Brien of last year's team as reserves. The Saints had a record of fifteen victories out of eighteen games last season. Games may be arranged by communicating with Charles B. McGhee, manager, No. 38 Exchange street, Lynn.

SEDGWICK WINNER IN WILLIAMS FALL GOLF

Williamstown, Oct. 21.—J. P. Sedgwick, 1921, Yahnundasis, defeated W. F. Black, 1920, Nassau, captain of the college golf team, 1 up in the final round of the Williams College Fall golf tournament.

WILSON LANDS KNOCKOUT IN JUST TWENTY SECONDS

By JACK CONWAY.

The fighter with the kayo punch is still king

Long may he reign, declare those o sporting gentlemen who delight in seeing a healthy young athlete pla a chunk of human dynamite on an opponent's jaw.

Johnny Wilson, the fighter, disposed of Young (Jake) Ahearn, the boxer, in just twenty seconds at the Fenway A. A.'s show in Mechanics Building. It would probably be more correct to state that the contest lasted thirty seconds as a boxer is allowed ten seconds before being declared knocked out.

Referee Noah Perry did not bother o count after Wilson landed a pulverizing left hook on Ahearn's jaw shortly after the tussle started. It was not necessary, as Jake was out on his feet the second the blow scored. He fell in a limp mass to the canvas and was helpless when lifted out of the ring and placed in a chair by his seconds.

A SHORT BOUT.

It was the shortest big bout held in Boston since that night at the Arena when Ted (Kid) Lewis stopped Jimmy Duffy of Lockport with a punch.

Many of the fans seated some distance from the ring did not see the blow which sent the Charlestown fans home happy.

When the bell sounded the rivals started boxing at a very lively clip. Ahearn was stepping around like a real champion. It was obvious he was going to try to win on points. He is too well versed in the ways of the ring to think he can stand up and exchange punches with a strong, ambitious youth like Wilson.

AHEARN THE SPEEDIER.

For a few seconds it looked as though Ahearn was going to be successful in keeping away from Wilson's haymaker. The South Boston middleweight was much faster than Wilson and scored with a couple of light left and right hand blows.

Meanwhile Wilson was trying to get to close quarters where he would have an opportunity to score with his punch. It was much like the affair at Toledo when Willard tried to keep Dempsey at bay with his long left.

Wilson came through like Dempsey. His big opportunity presented itself when Ahearn got into a neutral corner. Jake tried to feint and get out of the corner by sidestepping.

LANDED LEFT HOOK.

As Ahearn's head shot over to his right side, Wilson let drive with a terrific left hook. The punch landed on the right side of Ahearn's jaw. His arms dropped to his side; his head fell forward and rested on his chest; then his legs collapsed and he fell to the mat.

He had as much chance of getting on his feet within ten seconds as a college cheer leader has of receiving a round of applause at a prayer meeting.

Noah Perry, the old-time boxer, was referee. Pop O'Brien was originally booked to be the third man in the ring. But he never put in an appearance.

EASY FOR NOAH.

As matters turned out, Noah had a much easier time than his famous ancestor did when he was boss of the well-known Ark.

The contest was witnessed by 6,000 fans. It was a bigger crowd than the one which saw Johnny Dundee beat Benny Valzer last Summer.

For those in the crowd who came from Charlestown, 'twas a pleasant evening. As for South Boston, it should worry, for it always is able to celebrate every 17th of March.

TILLO A WINNER.

Frank Tillo, North End lightweight, continued his run of victories by stopping Young Corbey of Gloucester. Corbey proved game, but was outclassed. A sponge tossed into the ring ended the contest just before time for the eighth round.

The whirl between Burt Jones of Revere and Mack Murphy, Atlanto boxer, was declared "no contest" by Referee Jerry Moore in the fourth frame. Jones tried to make a fight of it, but Murphy was in the ring merely to go the distance.

Flash Rogers of the North End and Johnny Marto, Chelsea boxer, went six frames to a draw.

Bill Brennan Gives Dan O'Dowd Bad Beating

Jersey City, Oct. 21 — Dan O'Dowd of Boston got a bad slugging at the hands of Bill Brennan, the heavyweight who gave Jack Dempsey one of his hardest bouts, in the main bout of an all-star card at the Armory A. A. The New Englander was roughly handled by Brennan and took the count of nine in the fourth round. From that session on, Brennan hammered O'Dowd at will.

Joe Jeannett and Harry Wills indulged in a sort of pink tea affair which the crowd booed down.

Abe Rosenberg, former amateur welterweight champion, knocked Abe Lundy out in the third round of the opener. Rosenberg sent a left to the stomach and a right to the jaw, the combination of which spun Lundy for the count.

ALL-STAR BOXING CARD AT LAWRENCE SATURDAY

Johnny Cuddy of the Atlas Club of Lawrence is going to stage an all-star card in his open-air arena on Lawrence Saturday afternoon. Four ten-round bouts have been arranged.

Joe Tiplitz, Philadelphia lightweight, and Joey Fox, British featherweight champion, will meet in the feature bout. Al Reubert of New Bedford and Battling Reddy, New York featherweight, will go over the jumps in another contest.

Barney Adair of New York and Chick Simler, Scranton lightweight, will exchange wallops while Pal Reid of the Navy will try to dispose of Red Tiernan of Waterbury.

It is the best all-star attraction ever offered the boxing fans of New England.

Riley Forced to Quit

Dover, N. H., Oct. 21—Tommy Riley of Biddeford, Me., injured his arm, after eight rounds of boxing with Billy Burke of Lynn, Mass., and was forced to quit in the main bout at Quamphegan Park.

Hoppe, Morningstar and Sutton Win at Billiards

New York, Oct. 21.—Ora Morningstar, George E. Sutton and Willie Hoppe, the champion, were the victors in the opening matches of the 182 balkline billiard championship tourney at the Hotel Astor.

Morningstar crossed cues in the first match with Jake Schaefer, defeating the latter narrowly by 400 to 25.

Sutton defeated George F. Slosson, 400 to 237. Hoppe defeated Walker Cochran by 400 to 319.

RUTH AND EVERS TO HELP HONOR PAT MORAN

Fitchburg, Oct. 21 John J. Evers will be on hand Thursday night when the fans of the city gather in Chamber of Commerce Hall to honor Pat Moran, the miracle man of the season of 1919. John has sent a telegram assuring his presence to Edward J. Breen, one of the committee.

Babe Ruth also will be present when Colonel George B. Wallace opens the festivities at the banquet.

West Fitchburg fans will try to show Pat what the home folks think of him tonight. A big electric main street will appear a banner bearing the West-Enders' battle cry, "West Fitchburg Against the World." Three bands have been engaged to furnish music for the parade. All of the local baseball teams have been invited to parade in uniform, there will be flying and special features.

A special committee will see to it that the old time baseball fanatic to the celebration and will provide conveyances. The west end of the town has taken on a gala appearance with bunting and Japanese lanterns. A platform has been erected and on it will be Pat, his dad, Mayor Frank H. Foss and leading citizens.

ZBYSZKO TO WRESTLE FOR TUOHEY THURSDAY

Waldes Zbyszko has assured Promoter Tuohey that he will appear at the Grand Opera House on Thursday night and that the agreement made with Tuohey stands. This was verified by Jack Curley, manager of Zbyszko, and settles beyond doubt where the Pole is to wrestle in Boston this week.

"Zbyszko agreed on this date with me several weeks ago," said Tuohey "and as he has always dealt fair with me I was surprised to see him advertised to wrestle other than at the Grand on Thursday. I wired Zbyszko and he came to Boston Saturday in person and assured me that his agreement with me stood. Later he also telephoned from Old Orchard to the same effect. Jack Curley, his manager, has made all the plans and this makes it positive that the Pole will wrestle Kheppu at the Grand on Thursday."

Ira Betz, the new middleweight champion of Maine, will meet the best available man.

SIEGAL FLOORS POOLER TWICE IN MAINE BOUT

Rockland, Me., Oct. 21—Nate Siegal of Revere, Mass., sent Young Pooler of Bangor to the mat twice, but the latter managed to stay in the double six-round bout at Rockland. Murphy of Lewiston and Young Sour of Bangor boxed a six-round draw.

Why Pay Rent?

THE ultimate consumer is a sad-looking sapp whose bankroll shows traces of former beauty.

HE'S the bimbo who is still earning a salary when it is impossible to live on anything less than wages. It's a tough life, mates, but we can remember when they used to ask us if we wanted two or three lumps in our coffee. Those were the days when the bar pilot would sell you something that would make you weep on his shoulder and it was cheaper to move than pay rent.

TEN years ago it was cheaper to move than pay rent. Five years ago it was cheaper to pay rent than move.

NOW it ain't either.

THE old moonlight moving is a thing of the past, like the Ponzi scheme of a Mitteleurops. No piano buster will crash your furniture for less than fifty smackers a wagon load. It's much cheaper to leave your furniture where it is and pay the instalments on it. It will take at least one hearse and three carriages to move your entire bouche d'effets, besides three extra wheelbarrow loads of used pronograph needles. That's two hundred buttons for the job. No family can afford to move even if they're two jumps behind the rent and one jump ahead of a fit. Traps cost money. At the present prices of ice, Eliza could never have bought enough to escape on.

YOU can still get three lumps. But not in your coffee. If you try snitching one lump, the waiter puts the other two lumps on your koke with a bungstopper. They used to call 'em bunkstarters, but now there ain't anything to start. May and October first are the two big days for moving in New York. The family moves in May and about October first every thing is nicely settled except the rent. On October first they're on the loop again. It's a great life. Even more suits like this just make a Keith biz.

AFTER paying fifty dollars to move eight dollars' worth of furniture, the family pop into the new coop, which is slightly larger than the old nest, owing to the fact that the hinges on the front door fold out instead of in. The telephone company soaks you ten bills in advance for the first three months' service, which is a big gamble for a guy who has only got a month's rent in his kicks. You never find the telephone in a new apartment. No sooner than one family escapes than the company amputates the phone. The three months' service consists mostly of running green wire around the moulding and down the walls until the apartment looks like a zither or a harp.

THE electric light birds and the gas company also take a tumble out of your bank roll. The electric light company and the gas works are all one big firm split in two. You think it's one firm until they send you two bills. They tell you to use electricity and save gas, and use gas to save electricity. If you only used gas you wouldn't be saving gas. If you only used electricity you wouldn't be saving electricity. But by using both you save both. The Gypsy Dream Book is full of that stuff.

IT really doesn't make any difference how much juice you use trying to get the frost out of a curling iron or the icicles off the oven. The meter doesn't need gas to make it run. It feeds on air. Besides, it doesn't make any difference to you whether the meter adds the gas up wrong or whether the collector adds the meter up wrong. A nomination on that ticket is equivalent to election.

BY the time that the janitor collects his bit you're like the guy who has just got the brass ring in an earthquake. You're waltzing from the neck up. You've escaped from one landlord, but you've only jumped from the fathead into the firm. You've got a different janitor, but it's the same old rent day, the same old phone and gas company and the same old moving vans.

THE suburban building companies are always asking: "Why Pay Rent?" They have a beautiful instalment system of long fuse payments that enables a young married couple to get great assistance from your grandchildren in paying 'em each week.

IN the meantime, "Why Pay Rent?"

Statistics of Game Showed Dartmouth Outrushed Rivals

Hanover, N. H., Oct. 21 — Dartmouth's football squad came through the battle with Penn State in excellent condition, a few minor casualties marring the condition of the team as a unit.

The Green has been carried the ball 94 times and totalled 215 yards while Penn only gained 33 yards on its 22 rushes. Dartmouth, while making 17 first downs, held Penn State to two, only one of which came by straight rushing.

BIG WEEK AHEAD FOR SCHOOL TEAMS

Next Saturday is the midway point of the school football season of 1919 and before another twenty-five games on the schedule, four in the Suburban League, three in the North Shore League, three in the Bay State and all will be in action and the games between prep schools and private schools complete the list. During the week there will be only nine games, three Wednesday, one Thursday and five on Friday.

The game between English High and Mechanic Arts at Pennant Park, Friday, is looked forward to with interest by the fans. Dan O'Doherty has his team all shaped up for a fighting point and expects great things from them for the remainder of the season. Mechanic Arts showed up like champs at St. John's last Saturday but not a team of the world class standard. The Tech school can't get up to form in a hurry.

The other games on the day are Roxbury Latin at Milton, Boston Latin at Brookline, Worcester Academy at Worcester, Worcester Classical at Worcester, Worcester Technical at Worcester, Worcester Industrial at Worcester, Huntington School at Natick and Newton at Newton.

FAVORITE-METHOD TOP-LINERS

[illegible] between Medford and Somerville [illegible] Medford [illegible] should be the favorite [illegible] record of the year being in the league, but [illegible] Somerville [illegible] a good chance to win. Somerville has been playing [illegible] and will furnish the fans with all the [illegible] that go with the game. Coach Frank Kenney is lucky to have these two players, both of whom rank with the foremost backfield men of any of the school teams.

Malden High will pay the [illegible] Lynn Classical at Malden. [illegible] have shown a good deal of [illegible] and should have but little trouble in winning from Lee Mahoney's eleven, but don't be surprised to see the Lynn boys put the ball in the fashion that he has been, there is no telling what he will break up a game. Malden has scored three goals to date. Two against Lynn Tech, and one in the Brookline game.

The two other games on the Suburban list are Arlington High at Belmont and Newton Hinds Tech at Newton. [illegible]

The High School of Commerce eleven [illegible] High and B. C. High, the only city schools that will be in action, will all play out of town. Commerce [illegible] Somerville [illegible] and B. C. High [illegible] Dorchester [illegible] Dorchester will play at Haverhill and B. C. High will meet Waltham.

CORBETT'S COLUMN

[illegible] a team with the wallop in the [illegible] way will is ever popular with the sport loving masses.

It's the batter who can drive the baseball out of the lot week after week or who can send long drives crashing against the fences, who is the real drawing card in baseball, it is the fighter with the man-killing punch that gets the big guarantees and his name and picture in the paper with great frequency.

Babe Ruth's feat in driving out twenty home runs during the 1919 season was the one thing that saved the last [illegible] from financial disaster. Long before mid-summer arrived it was evident that the Sox were out of the pennant race. To see a team they [illegible] get [illegible] in August and September, [illegible] Yet all year long they played to [illegible] stands.

And [illegible] Ruth is the answer [illegible] out to see the [illegible] pitch the ball over the fence. [illegible] another homer for him [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

This Day in Our History—October 21, 1919

THIS is the anniversary of the birth, in 1772, of Samuel Taylor Coleridge, the poet, whose beautiful work, "The Rime of the Ancient Mariner," won for him a high place in English literature. Coleridge was great as a poet, a critic and a philosopher. Addicted to the opium habit, his years were far from happy ones. He died in 1834.

THE WICKED MARQUIS

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

NEW NOVEL FROM THE PEN OF THE FAMOUS AUTHOR

Love and Revenge Centre About an Agreeable English Aristocrat of the Old School and His Ancestral Estate

What Has Happened

The Marquis of Mandleys, an English nobleman of ... days gone by, finds himself nearly bankrupt from law cases against Richard Vont, the occupant of a cottage on his estate who refuses to vacate his own property. The Marquis' solicitor informs him that the sum of eighteen thousand pounds is ... to settle the court bills and that it would be useless to make another appeal, even to the House of Lords. A young woman ... to the Marquis in the grill room of the Savoy and he snubs her. David Thain, a young American millionaire, protege of the Duchess, is introduced to the Marquis. The Marquis relates to Thain how [illegible] daughter [illegible]. After luncheon he calls on Marcia Mannaway ... allowance [illegible] been paid to ... a row with his solicitor about it. Thain is given a dinner party, after which the Marquis tells Thain he would like to make a million dollars without trouble to himself and with no chance of loss. Thain suggests oil stock. Marcia tells her publisher, James Borden, that she cannot marry him. She decides to go to Mandleys with him to see her father, Richard Vont. Thain visits his boyhood home.

"WELL, somehow or other," David continued, as he filled his own pipe and lit it, "I found myself back here through the years, and I wondered whether we hadn't both let one thing grow too big in our minds. Life doesn't vary much here. Things are very much as we left them, and it's all rather wonderful. I felt a little ashamed, as I came up through the park of some of the things we've planned and sworn. Didn't you feel a little like that, uncle? Can you sit here and think of the past and remember all that burden we carried, and not feel inclined to let it slip, or just a little of it slip, from our shoulders?"

Rose to His Feet

Vont laid down his pipe. He rose to his feet. His fingers suddenly gripped his nephew's shoulder. He turned him towards the house.

"Listen, David," he said; "there's twilight an hour away yet, but it will soon be here. The blackbirds are calling for it, and the wing's dropping. Now, ... was her room ... rolled out like the window, and there's the moor out, just the ... You see that tree there." I was crouching be-

IF THIN AND NERVOUS, TRY PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Nitro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force.

When one stops to consider the host of thin people who are searching continually for some method by which they may increase their flesh to normal proportions by the filling out of ugly hollows and rounding off of angles, and acquire with the attendant bloom of health and attract vigor, it is no wonder that many and varied suggestions ... appear from time to time in public print.

While excessive thinness might be attributed to various and subtle causes in different individuals, it is a well-known fact that the lack of phosphorus in the human system is very largely responsible for this condition.

It seems to be well established that this deficiency in phosphorus may now be met by the use of an organic phosphate known throughout Europe as Nitro-Phosphate. The assimilation of this phosphate by the nerve tissue soon produces a welcome change in our body and mind. Nerve tone on disappears, vigor and strength replace weakness and lack of energy and the whole body soon loses its ugly hollows and abrupt angles, becoming enveloped in a glow of perfect health and beauty. And the will and strength to help us in doing.

CAUTION—Nitro-Phosphate is unsurpassed for the relief of nervousness, general debility, etc., those taking it who do not desire to put on flesh should use extra care in avoiding fat-producing foods.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Corn opened 5c to 1c higher. Oats were 1c to 2c higher. Provisions opened lower. Opening prices were: Corn—December, 1.39¾ to 1.39, May, 1.34¾ to 1.34. Oats—December, 71¾, May, 74¾ to 74¾. Pork—October, $1.50; January, $27.75. Lard—January, 24.25 to 24.10. Ribs—October, 17.45 to 17.35.

BOSTON MARKET HAS FAIRLY STRONG START

The Boston market began strong and fairly active. It also had breadth. Punta Alegre opened at a new record high price, as did Elder. Before the end of the morning profit taking was on sufficient scale to give the list an irregular appearance. Mullins Body sold below the closing figure of the previous day. At its lowest it was off almost three points. Root & Van Dervoort was also weak. Succeeding more than two. Parish & Bingham was lower, too. Gray & Davis showed the most strength in the motor accessory group and was up a point at its highest. Davis-Daly was not so active as yesterday, and had a narrow range with no definite trend. Copper rolled lower and mining issues were irregular, but Swift & Co. was firm.

Monday was the most active session on the Boston Exchange since May 15, transactions totalling 15,800 shares.

New York Sub-Treasury Cash

New York, Oct. 21.—The sub-treasury gained $5,000 from the banks on Monday, reducing the cash net loss since Friday to $7,681,000.

EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE BOSTON AMERICAN OCTOBER 21, 1919. BOSTON

We Want No Service at Cost Under Private Control

The following is an interesting news item from one of our Boston newspapers:

Forty per cent. of the expense of continuing the bankrupt Blue Hill Street Railway Company in operation from Mattapan, through Milton and Canton, to Stoughton, is to be paid by residents of Milton.

True it is that the Blue Hill line trolleys pass through only one corner of West Milton, the Brush Hill district, and the residents there largely have their own automobiles, being persons of wealth. When the street cars were put in there eighteen years ago, they objected strongly. Now they hate to lose them.

A momentous question is said to be involved just now. It seems the domestics employed on the estates in this part of Milton, who have depended upon the Blue Hill line cars on their days off to go and see their own folks; to keep dates with their best fellows; to go to the movies in Boston or other places, may desert practically en masse if the trolleys cease to run.

It has not been the experience of the cooks, maids, housekeepers and other servants to enjoy rides in the limousines or other autos of the families for which they work. They are not invited, as a rule.

While the walking is good, the distances are great in Milton and the prospect, without street cars, is not inviting. Public spirited citizens of the Brush Hill district have, therefore, started the movement to raise the necessary $1,500, or 40 per cent. of the cost of keeping the street cars going until January 1, at least. A committee that was appointed has received subscriptions for most of the money needed, it is said.

This illustrates very well one of the many important reasons for low carfares. It put another crimp in the absurd service-at-cost slogan adopted by those who have bought bankrupt roads that they want to unload indirectly upon the public and at the same time control the roads in order to bankrupt them again and unload them again. We want nothing to do with service-at-cost under private management.

Ferguson on America's Part in China's Betrayal

At the Boston City Club the other night Dr. John C. Ferguson, a distinguished authority on Chinese affairs and one-time official adviser of the Chinese government, gave his views of the relations between China and Japan.

He made an interesting comparison between the power of America, standing aloof from foreign entanglements and foreign intrigues and with the clean hands that such aloofness alone permits, to do good to foreign nations needing our help, compared with our power to do good to such nations after we had entangled ourselves and stained our hands with old world intrigues, treacheries and imperialism.

He pointed out to us that for fifteen years, from 1899 to the outbreak of the war, the United States protected the territorial integrity of China against the aggressions of Japan, and did it without foreign alliances, without any League of Nations, without any broken faith and without any betrayal of a friend or foe.

And now today, as a result of our entanglements and our plunging into foreign intrigue, we have betrayed China, our friend and ally who put her faith in us alone and made far more sacrifices of blood in the war than the Japanese and was far more faithful. Nobody ever accused China of preparing to desert what looked like a sinking ship, but the French Ambassador to Japan told Congressman Fuller of Massachusetts that the Japanese were on the very point of deserting to Germany when it looked as if Germany were about to win and they sent a Mission to this country, so Congressman Fuller declares that the French Ambassador told him, in order to find out whether America was in earnest and intended to fight this war to the limit. And if that mission had not reported that America was in earnest and was going to apply "force to the uttermost" Japan would have withdrawn from her alliance and taken the side of Germany, which she knew would win if the United States either had not gone into the war or had not gone into it in grim earnestness. That is the nation to which we betrayed China. China would not trust the other powers, but she trusted us and went into the war at our request, and her men were in the danger zone in France. We do not know how many were killed, but we do know that both in Russia and in France they were in the danger zone by the hundreds of thousands while Japan kept her troops at home, sitting on the fence watching events, ready to jump to be strong on the stronger side, storing up her wealth out of the sales of munitions and driving her shylock bargains with her trembling, exhausted, preoccupied allies. Is that the kind of a nation we want as our associate in the League of Nations, and if it is, is she the kind of nation we want to break our faith to get?

Dr. Ferguson is profoundly right. Nothing could better illustrate the efficacy of our traditional policy of aloofness than its success in protecting China for fifteen years and the utter failure to protect China for fifteen minutes. And worse than that the new policy not only failed to protect China, but it stained our hands with the guilt of an active participation in China's betrayal.

The Mantle of Silent Charity

The reply by Senator Walsh of Massachusetts to Senator Williams of Mississippi, whose diatribe against the Irish Americans astounded the Senate, was perfect in form and substance. He threw over the befuddled Senator from Mississippi the mantle of pity and charity and left him to snooze again in the Republican seat, whither doubtless he wandered without knowing it.

THE DINNER YOU GAVE YOUR GUESTS

Housewife, do you not exert yourself too much in the preparation of meals when you have guests?

An elaborate repast, cooked without the assistance of a maid, means a good many hours of thought and previous work to get ready.

Often after your guests have departed and you have found yourself too weary to be able to rest, you have said that never again would you do so much for anyone.

Now the right sort of friends are not your guests for the sake of the good things you cook for them.

A simple little meal and a cheerful hostess makes a combination more to be desired than course after course, served in such a manner guests wonder how it can be done in a private house on the ordinary

DEAR K. C. B.—We are four boys at home and I am the youngest. We constantly scrap as to who shall get the back page of the American—the page with your column in it. Mother doesn't like this scrapping at supper time, and after a discussion we had it was agreed that I should write to you and if you answer my letter in your column that for a year thereafter I should have your page of the paper first each night.

Now it's up to you to make me the lion in our household and to make it come to pass that the last shall be first. H. Z.

HERE'S YOUR letter.
AND NOW I've printed it.
AND YOUR'E a lion.
IN YOUR own household.
I WISH you'd tell me.
WHAT IN the world
I'M GOING to write.
TO FILL this column.
AND GO get dressed.
IN A flannel shirt.
AND AN old suit.
AND GET the car.
AND COME on back.
AND GET my wife.
AND THEN start out.
AND STOP at a place.
WHERE THEY roast chickens.
AND BUY a cold one.
AND AT somewhere else
AND GET some bread.
AND A roll of butter.
AND KEEP on going.
AND HIT the country.
AND THE yellow leaves.
AND THE red leaves.
STILL ON the trees.
AND FALLING.
AND GET a flat wheel
AND CHANGE it.
AND NEVER mind
AND KEEP on.
AND ALONG in the evening.
WHEN IT'S going to be daylight.
JUST ABOUT long enough
TO GATHER some wood
WE'LL GET to the top
OF A great hill.
AND WE'LL turn.
AND DOWN below us.
WILL BE more gold.
AND YELLOW.
AND RED.
AND WHERE it all is
JUST LIKE a diamond.
SET IN a ring.
WILL BE the lake.
AND OUR brakes will squeak.
AND WE'LL get down.
TO THE foot of the hill
AND THAT night.
AND THE next day.
AND THE next night.
WE'LL HIDE down there
IN THE yellow leaves.
AND THE gold leaves.
AND WE won't care.
WHO GETS the paper first.
I THANK you.

To the Editor

Indignant Housewife

Editor Boston American:

As an American housewife, I would like to say that, after preserving without sugar and waiting to use the sugar in the preserves on the table, I most seriously object to having it said that we housewives are the cause of the shortage. We never have had the chance to "hoard," did we so desire, and are even dictated to at this late day when to come, and if we call at our grocers' after 3 or 4 p. m. "all sold out" is the cry. I was always sure of one pound during the war, but now, for three weeks, cannot get one ounce of brown or white, and I have a family and do my own cooking. Who is at fault? The housewives, I'm sure, are not, and now they sell half a pound at six cents—if you can get it.

Crux of Railroad Problem

By FRANCIS H. SISSON

Vice-President Guaranty Trust Company, New York

THERE must be no more delay in arriving at a practicable, satisfactory railroad plan. Further procrastination is dangerous. As long as the transportation situation is unsettled, there will inevitably be unsettled economic conditions in this country, for the railroads constitute the backbone of our economic state.

The railroads cannot freely develop and keep abreast of the growing needs of the country unless capital invested in the railroads is allowed to earn a fair reward for efficient service. That, in fact, is the crux of the problem, and must be recognized as such by Congress and the public, if the return of the railroads is to be effected upon a satisfactory basis for the welfare of the nation.

It is plain that in the next few years hundreds of millions of dollars will have to be invested in the railroads, and most of these millions must come from the savings of the people, which can be attracted to such investment only on the basis of public confidence in the stability of railway earnings.

Out of Politics

Sound railway legislation will take the railways out of politics just as the banking legislation of 1913 took the banking question out of politics. This is a non-partisan issue in which all citizens have a common interest. It is not a class problem, a problem for labor, for shipper or for investor to solve. It is the people's problem, and if the nation would reduce the high cost of living, stabilize economic conditions and preserve the prosperity of the country, it must wake up to that vital fact and permit the railroads to earn rates which will rehabilitate the credit of the roads and command the amount of new capital urgently needed.

There is another great danger threatening the railroads and the country to which the American public must also awake, and that is the proposal of the railroad brotherhoods to nationalize the railroads. In that proposal Socialism, for the first time in our history, seriously throws down the gauge of battle nationally and demands a trial at arms. This challenge, in itself of far-reaching importance in the attempt it makes to control the great service of transportation, is of much greater significance in the definite threat that success in this field will be followed by efforts to secure the nationalization of all industry, or, in other words, a complete socialistic state.

This bold effort to take possession of one of the nation's basic and most vital industries for the benefit of a single class, and to the assured detriment of all others, frankly discloses the wide spread of socialistic thought in this country and the danger to American institutions which it implies.

Class Profiteering

Stripped of all its fine phrases and socialistic rhetoric, the Plumb plan is simply a scheme for class rule and class profiteering. It provides for government of transportation of, by and for the railroad brotherhoods.

The struggle is on between democracy and Socialism. In spite of its shortcomings, we have developed in this country a system under which its people have enjoyed the greatest prosperity of any people in the world's history. Today all the world turns to us for help, and if we jeopardize not only our own powers of service but also our own national future by departing so radically from the system which has made us great, we will be recreant to both our duty and our opportunity. Individual freedom and the incentive to success, which have built this country, cannot be forsaken without pulling down over our own heads the structure we have so proudly reared. It seems unthinkable that such a possibility could even be discussed, and yet here it faces us, not only a possibility but a probability, unless the intelligence of the country is aroused to meet it.

On this question of government ownership of railroads we stand today in the first-line trenches for the protection of the private ownership of all property. If this position is lost, the whole line will be seriously threatened. Men who believe in American institutions, in property right, in orderly government, must line up in opposition to this attack, or live to regret the day of their unpreparedness.

PUT LOVE IN HOUSEWORK AND BE HAPPY

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

IN a convention of women physicians from all over the globe not long ago, a noted writer and student of sociological questions was discussing the subject of community kitchens in a way that showed she rather favored the idea.

"Ah! but, madame," interrupted a quiet little Frenchwoman who sat among the delegates, "who is going to put the love in the cooking?"

That's the nuisance of it. You can sit down at a desk and work out any number of beautifully exact formulas and schedules to set the world straight and right every conceivable wrong; but the moment you start to put those schedules and formulas into operation old Human Nature bounces up and kicks a dozen holes in them.

Love a Big Factor

And one of the peculiar requirements of Human Nature is that in supplying its needs love shall appear somewhere as a factor. We like the meals which are superintended or prepared by some one who is interested in us; we sleep soundest on the bed which is smoothed and turned down by loving hands; we enjoy the dwellings where affection and consideration have dictated the arrangement and furnishings.

Doubtless the laws of sanitation and hygiene would be much better subserved if we were to lodge in a sort of hospital-like barracks and be fed according to some scientific allotment of proteins and calories. But the chances are that under such a regime we would pine and die like an Eskimo deprived of his blubber and taken away from his reeking igloo.

Far be it from me to recommend pie for breakfast or sleeping in air-tight rooms. Yet, in all candor, I cannot deny that many great and good men and women have practiced those excesses and have not seemed to suffer thereby in either health, morals or longevity. The only explanation I can give is that love somehow lightens up the pie-crust and oxygenates the atmosphere.

Woman Natural Home Maker

The only laboratory where such miracles can be achieved is the home, and the only chemist who can achieve them is a woman. A man as the centre and controlling spirit of a real home is unthinkable. Woman is by nature and tradition the housekeeper and home-maker. It was her earliest and for a long time her only profession, and in its varied activities she finds her greatest happiness and benefit. Let any woman choose between a home as she would like to have it and the hurly-burly of outside affairs and the vote would be almost unanimous for a "quiet life by the fireside."

I know a woman who, staggered by the increasing difficulty of her domestic problems—the high cost of living, the inability to get help, the constant demands upon her time and strength—gave up her home a few months ago.

She was as exultant as a bird just freed from its cage. "Never again!" she raised her right hand in asseveration as she detailed her plans for herself and her family. "Hereafter we are just going to drift, each one as he pleases, and let somebody else have the work and the worry."

I saw her the other day after a season of varied experiences in hotels and boarding houses.

The Divinest Freedom

"Oh, if I only had my own back," she moaned. "I want my closets; I am so tired of living in a trunk. I want a place where I can press out a blouse or wash a few things if I feel like it. I want to come to the breakfast table without having to make a full toilette. I want a steak broiled my own way. And all the rest of us are as wretched as I am. To think that I used to call housekeeping slavery. Why, now it seems to me like the divinest freedom."

"CAVE MAN" THEORY OF LOVE REVIVED

The "cave man" theory which holds that brutality in men inspires love in some women has just been revived. Eugene Walter's stunning punch on pretty Miss Whitmore's face is said to have been responsible for a renewal of his neglected wife's love. There will be an interesting discussion of this subject in the Magazine section of next Sunday's

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT THE AIR WE BREATHE

By Garrett P. Serviss

"I have a few questions, for I did your articles a great inspiration. (1) What is the approximate drop of temperature for a rise of 500 feet in altitude? (2) Is the warm air hugging the surface of the earth in stable equilibrium with reference to the upper colder strata. (3) What is the ultimate cause of the unevenness and the changing distribution of the pressure of our atmosphere?—H., Brooklynn."

THE drop for 500 feet ascent is a little less than a degree and a half Fahrenheit. The average drop has been found to be about one degree for 350 feet, or half a degree Centigrade for 100 metres. This is generally applicable anywhere on land, but only for short distances above the ground. However, European observations have shown an average annual vertical gradient, i. e., rate of change, of about 5 degrees Cent. (9 degrees Fah.) for every 1,000 metres (3,280 feet), and American observations for the Summer half of the year have given an average drop of about 17 degrees Fahrenheit for one mile of ascent. However, in the free air over land or sea, at considerable elevations, these figures cannot be strictly depended upon. Ultimately the experiences of the air navigators, whose ships and voyages are increasing so fast, will enormously increase our knowledge on these points. Direct exploration of the atmospheric ocean has only just begun.

In Stable Equilibrium

(2) In ordinary conditions, when at rest, the atmosphere is in stable equilibrium, notwithstanding that the layer near the ground may be warmer than the air above. The reason is that the lower air is under greater pressure, and is therefore denser, than the air above it, while, on the other hand, if the lower air is lifted up it cools through the effects of expansion at a rate greater than the gradient of one degree Fah. for 180 feet of ascent which applies to the temperature of the air at rest. The consequence is that if the relatively warm surface air were raised 350 feet it would be cooled below the temperature of the air surrounding it at that elevation, and thus its superiority of density would be restored, and it would sink again.

But if the temperature of the lower air becomes so great that in rising it continually finds itself surrounded by air colder and denser than itself, i. e., if the cooling caused by expansion becomes less than that due to increase of altitude, then the equilibrium will be upset, and the result may be a local whirlwind, or the beginning of some wider weather disturbance.

(3) Only a very general statement can be made concerning the cause of the uneven distribution and the frequent variations of the pressure of the atmosphere, or barometric pressure.

Situation Explained

Still it is not difficult to comprehend, in a general way, what the situation is. The shell of air surrounding the globe is subjected to a great number of disturbing forces, to which it yields with the utmost readiness on account of the perfect mobility of its particles. Its pressure gradually increases from above downward because of the increasing weight of the superincumbent mass. But the heat of the sun, by expanding, and thus changing the density of different portions of the atmosphere, unequally and at different times, sets up various movements which destroy the regularity of the distribution of the pressure, both vertically and horizontally.

The vapor arising from the ocean has its influence also upon the relative density, pressure, and temperature of different parts of the air. Then, underneath is the rotating solid globe of the earth, on which the whole atmosphere rests, sharing, as a whole, the motion of rotation, but nevertheless experiencing certain disturbing effects from inequalities and oppositions between its own internal motions and the uniform rotary motion of the earth's surface.

In addition, there are the effects of the annual shifting alternately northward and southward of the whole system of supply from the sun. Winter and Summer, with their widely different temperatures, prevail simultaneously in the two opposite hemispheres, but exchange places once every year.
